With Purpose

CONCERN WAS REFLECTED on the face of Dr. Addis as he cheered the Golden Buffaloes on to victory at a football game.

Addis Guides School, Greater Athletic League

A familiar face around Southeast was that of Dr. Fred G. Addis. His face reflected Dr. Addis' devotion to Southeast and its students.

Dr. Addis was concerned with the educational development of students but was also keenly aware of the need for "well-rounded" students who, as they pass for the last time through Southeast's doors, must be able to take their places in an adult society.

Throughout the year, Dr. Addis' interest in the students was evidenced by his attendance at musical and dramatic productions, club functions, and classes. He was an ardent supporter of Southeast teams.

In addition to his many duties at Southeast, Dr. Addis assumed new responsibilities as president of the Wichita Greater Athletic League.

A bachelor's and master's degree from Wichita State University and a doctorate which Dr. Addis earned at the University of Colorado, attested to the qualified leadership of Southeast's principal.

LOOKING OVER ONE of his many messages was Dr. Addis. Dr. Addis was kept busy making policy decisions and performing his many administrative duties throughout the year.

APPROVING STUDENT TRANSFERS was Mr. O. J. Budd, vice principal. Mr. Budd spent a great deal of his time arranging student schedules and supervising the activities of new teachers. Organizing the office staff was also one of the duties Mr. Budd assumed in managing the office.

Discipline, Enrollment Handled By Administrators

DISCUSSING A DATE with a club president for a money raising project was Mr. James Tangeman, assistant principal. Supervising clubs was one of the new administrator's many student-oriented duties. He also aided pupils with their various assemblies and class elections.

Arranging schedules to make 2,285 students happy, and enrolling those students, which makes a few unhappy, were the main tasks of Mr. O. J. Budd, vice-principal. In addition, this year he tried to spend more time in supervision of new teachers.

Academic degrees which Mr. Budd has earned include a bachelor's degree from Kansas State Teacher's College at Emporia and a master's from the University of Colorado.

Maintaining discipline was the primary job of Mr. James Tangeman, new assistant principal. He also worked closely with the students in their clubs, elections, assemblies, and various other activities.

Mr. Tangeman received his bachelor's degree from Kansas State University, and his master's degree from the University of Wyoming. This year he also spent time completing requirements for his doctorate from the University of Wyoming.

REGISTERING A STUDENT for the American College Test was Mr. Corwin Bare, college counselor. Mr. Bare explained this national competition and many other similar tests to students. Besides assisting many students in selecting a college or vocation. He also helped some find part time jobs during the school year and the summer.

Counselors Aid Pupils In Making Decisions

Students often needed someone to discuss their problems with them or help them to make decisions concerning class enrollment and colleges.

Offering guidance at Southeast were four counselors whose help students constantly sought.

Mr. Corwin Bare, co-ordinator of guidance, handled the testing program, scheduling of college representatives, college night, career days, scholarship information, and entrance procedure.

Miss Fanny Thompson, sophomore counselor, Mrs. June Turner, junior counselor, and Mr. Richard Elving, senior counselor, assisted with testing, worked with test results, helped students with academic problems, and assisted in educational and vocational planning.

Recent creation of the Neighborhood Youth Corps added to the staff in the guidance office. Mrs. Maxine Foster, Southeast Youth Building Clerk for the Neighborhood Youth Corps, employed student job-seekers.

MANY STUDENTS SOUGHT guidance in this counselor's offices. Miss Fanny Thompson, sophomore counselor suggested courses for high school careers. Mrs. June Turner, junior counselor, assisted students by interpreting the scores of the many required tests. Helping seniors meet graduation requirements was the task of Mr. Richard Elving, senior counselor.

ATTENDING TO VARIOUS office duties were Miss Jane Wilke, treasurer, Mrs. Viola Kautz, attendance clerk, and Mrs. Rita Reiser, Dr. Addis' secretary.

Office Duties Performed By Members Of Staff

Serving the needs of 2,285 students, their parents, and teachers requires an efficient office staff. At Southeast, this task was handled by four secretaries, a registrar, and a treasurer.

Among many of the staff's duties were providing information and aid for students and parents, taking care of money transactions, checking absences and tardies, handling students' transcripts, recording credits and requirements, and helping with enrollment.

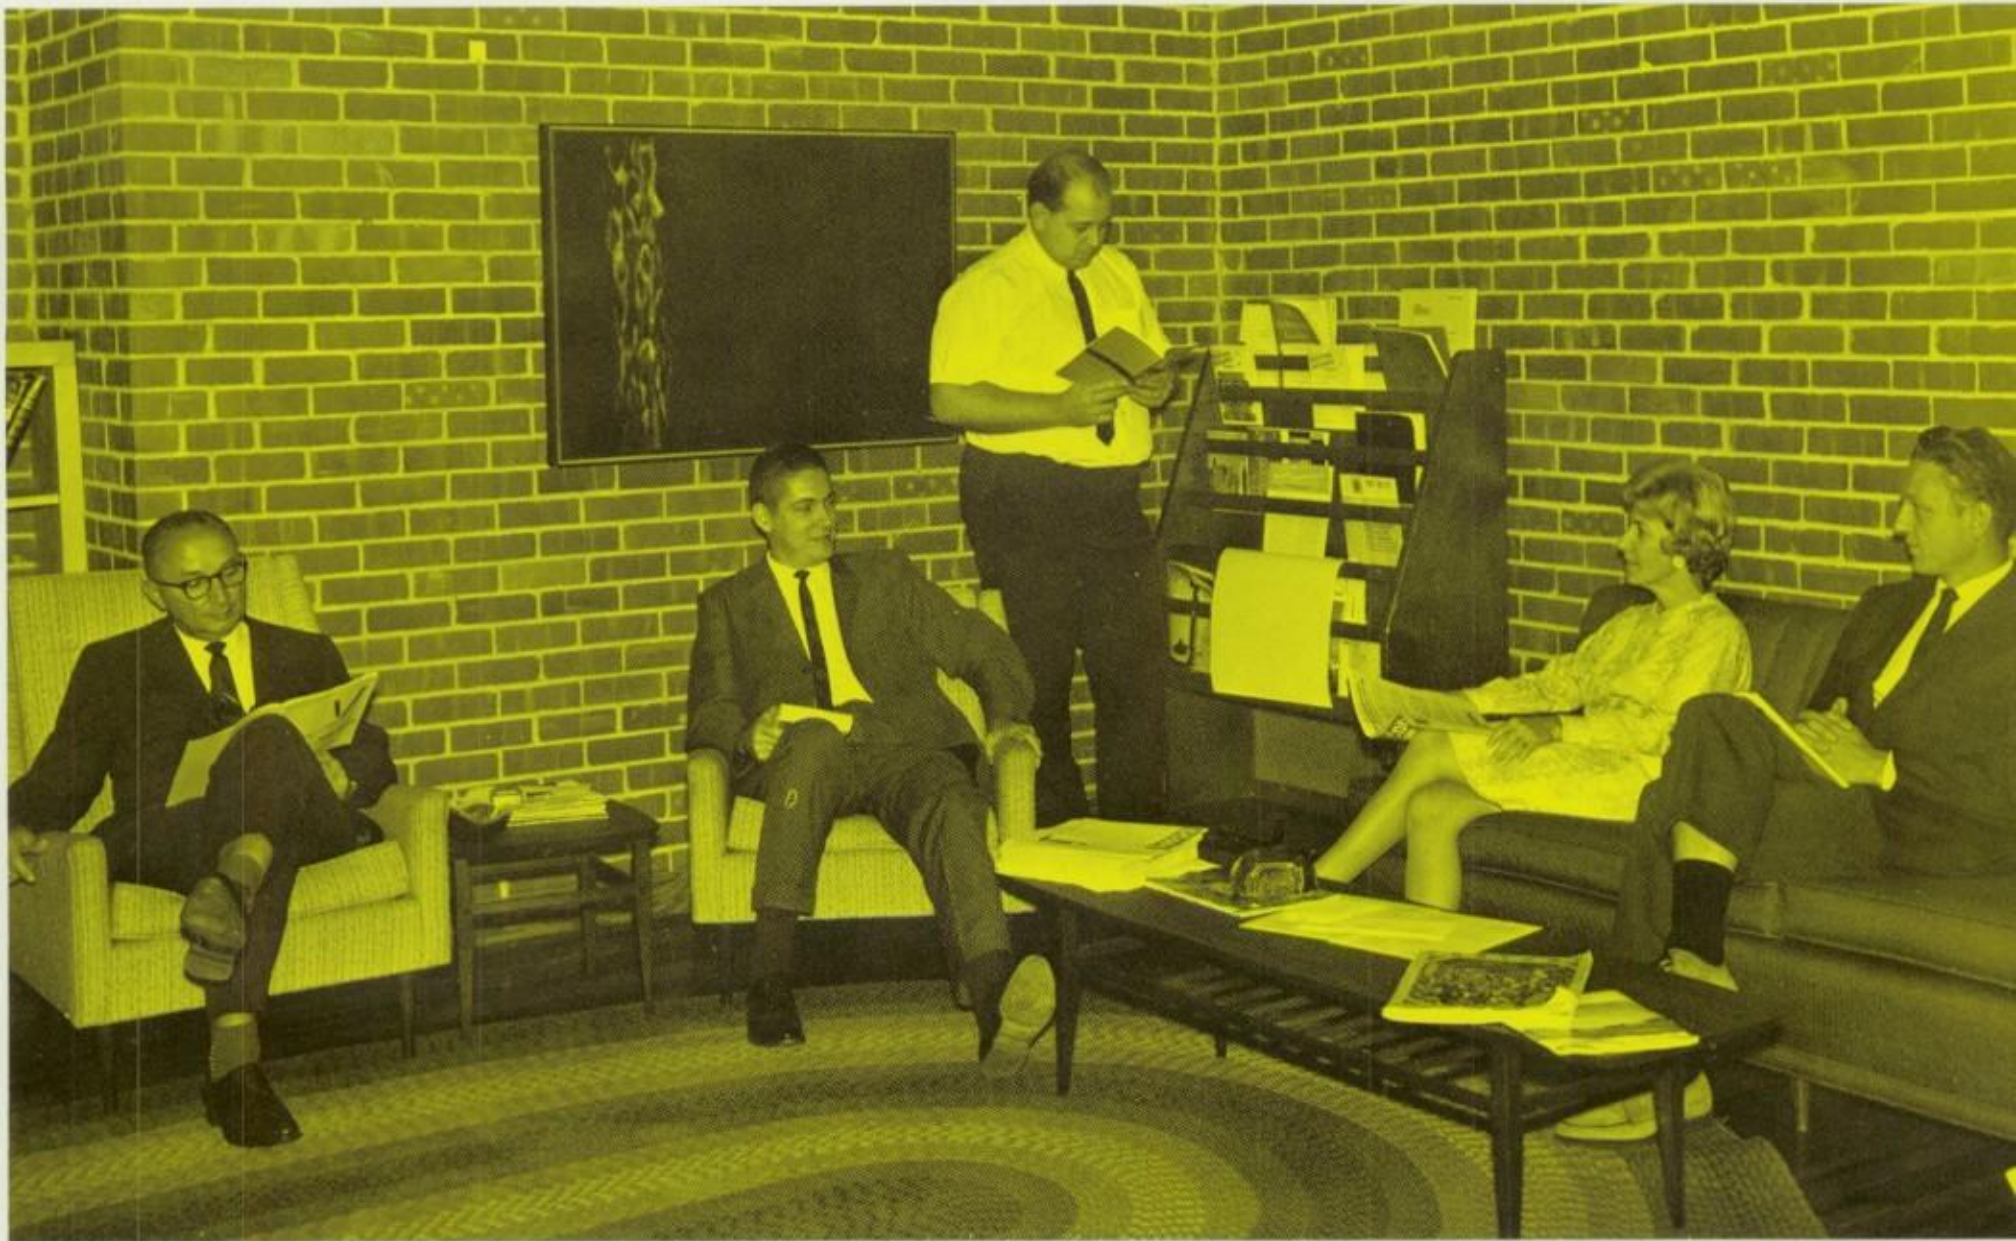

Mrs. Margaret Walters, school nurse, was always available in the health room to care for students' illnesses or injuries. In addition to giving first aid, Mrs. Walters conducted periodic dental and eye examinations.

STUDENTS WHO BECOME ill at school sought assistance from the school nurse, Mrs. Margaret Walters.

PERFORMING DAILY CHORES were Mrs. Vera Ridgeway, registrar, Mrs. Nadine Rogers, general office clerk, and Mrs. Ada Clifton, schedule secretary.

THE TEACHERS LOUNGE provided faculty members with a place to read and converse during their free hours. Furnished with chairs, tables, books, and magazines, the lounge was an excellent place for traveling teachers to plan their classwork. Mr. Marion Morozzo, business teacher, Mr. Richard Yeargan, English teacher, Mr. B. G. Greeley, head librarian, Mrs. June Dirks, English teacher, and Mr. Edgar Schroeder, math teacher, make use of the lounge.

Teachers Find Time To Relax During Free Time

SOUTHEAST'S REPRESENTATIVE from the Youth Corps was Mrs. Maxine Foster, who met with students in the counselors' office.

BEFORE SCHOOL, teachers congregated at the mail box in the office to receive bulletins and personal mail. Mrs. Helen Hageman, French teacher, Mrs. Kathryn Hay, English teacher, Miss Fanny Thompson, sophomore counselor, and Mr. William Harrison, English teacher chatted as they looked over their mail.

Language Department Used Modern Methods

"Modern" was the key to the language arts department as teachers made wide use of the audio-visual equipment. These new teaching aids put learning in a more tangible form for the students. This year there were 3,229 enrollments in language arts.

Many varied English courses were offered and geared to meet the needs of every student. A new course, humanities, was initiated into the regular English curriculum. It explored the culture of man from the caveman stage to Homo sapien as he is known today. Honors and advanced placement English challenged better students interested in advanced achievement in English. More specialized courses such as English composition, English literature, college reading, debate, speech, and journalism rounded out the department.

French, German, Latin, and Spanish emphasized the oral approach in teaching students to communicate in a foreign tongue. The language laboratories aided in pronunciation and understanding of the foreign language.

Listening intently to French conversations in the language laboratory was one of Mrs. Barron's French classes.

Developing potential and increasing present skills, as well as instilling aesthetic appreciation in students, was the goal of the fine arts department.

Courses in art, drama, and music were geared to meet the level of achievement of the individual student. Learning was enhanced by personal experience and climaxed by music programs, plays, and art exhibits.

Satisfaction achieved by expressing oneself through his own creations prompted many students to enroll in art. Several courses were offered to them, including introduction to art, ceramics and sculpture, commercial art, drawing and painting, and special arts production.

One hour of study, or in some cases, sleep, was the intention of those who enrolled in study hall.

Laboratory Work Serves As Science Teaching Aid

Rolling a skeleton out of the closet to make physiology more realistic, collecting such mundane things as oxygen in a test tube, and carefully following the progress of an unusual comet, were only a few of the reasons for the constant hubbub of E hall and the science department.

An impressive array of equipment was made available to students in all science classes, which included astronomy, biology, botany, chemistry, geology, physics, and physiology.

In addition, several pieces of new equipment were used. A set of better microscopes was added for biology students, while chemistry students had the opportunity to see the new mercury vapor vacuum pumps in operation. An overhead projector and transparencies were used throughout the department as a visual aid. Budding scientists were able to run controlled experiments in the modern chemistry and physics laboratories. In the spring and fall, biology students took field trips for the purpose of collecting insects and flowers for observation.

RECITING BONE STRUCTURES in physiology was Jackie Clark, senior. Students used skeletal models in identifying bones of the body.

Mathematics Department Used Modern Methods In Teaching Students Problem, Equation Solving

INSTRUCTING HIS GEOMETRY CLASS was Mr. Douglas Fulton, math teacher.

With a new geometry text, the transition to modern math was completed in the mathematics department.

Chalk screeching on the boards was a familiar sound in D-hall as students put theorems and assumptions to work proving triangles congruent or solving simultaneous equations for the rest of the class to see. Far from being dull lecture courses, the various classes captured the attention of students by using colorful wood and plastic models of geometric figures, graph charts, and two newly acquired overhead projectors.

Finding that mathematics opens many doors, students eagerly took courses offered by the department in algebra, analytical geometry, basic mathematics, business arithmetic, geometry, principals of mathematics, and trigonometry.

Business Classes Trained Students For College, Careers

Aimed at giving students a vocational education, Southeast's business department provided them with the opportunity to acquire skills useful in the business world.

From the rhythmical clatter of typewriters and adding machines, the nervous gnawing on erasers during a shorthand dictation, and the anxious way business arithmetic investors looked at stock market quotations, it was evident that the students were getting first-hand experience in the business field. In addition to typing, shorthand, and business arithmetic, other courses offered were: accounting, basic business, bookkeeping, business law, clerical procedures, notehand, penmanship, salesmanship, and secretarial training.

Modernized text books were used in all semester courses. More effective teaching of technique and procedure was made possible by the use of a new overhead projector and transparencies.

History, People, Politics Explored In Social Studies

Understanding people was the goal of students as they enrolled in social studies courses. Through classes including economic education, government, international relations, modern European history, psychology, sociology, American history, world geography, and world history, students hoped to gain an insight into what people do and why they do it.

Juniors and seniors taking American history and government experienced team teaching, in which the classes were large but still effective.

Four new teachers were added in the department which was in the process of adopting a new sequence of textbooks.

In the frequent discussions, which ranged from domestic affairs to foreign affairs and the world situation, students were given the opportunity to present their own views and listen to their classmates opinions as well.

STUDENT LED DISCUSSIONS were typical of international relations classes.

Preparation For The Future Given In Home Economics

Helping students plan for a successful future by acquiring useful skills and knowledge was the goal of the home economics department.

Included in the department curriculum were child care, home and family living, housing and home furnishing, foods, and clothing. Foods students enjoyed many opportunities at preparing food and then sampling the finished products. Increasing their own wardrobes by creating fashions in class made clothing a popular choice of many girls. Personal pride in their accomplishments was shown at the spring fashion show, staged by the students.

Personal experience was a key to learning in the home economics department.

WASHING DISH TOWELS used in their cooking class was a routine task.

PATTERN SELECTION was the first step for sewing students in completing their projects and enlarging their wardrobes.

Vocational Training Given In Industrial Arts Classes

With practicality in mind, students took advantage of the many courses offered in the industrial arts department.

Students enrolled in auto information, auto mechanics, driver education, electricity, general metals, mechanical drawing, plastics, pre-engineering industrial arts, and woodworking. The learning process was enriched by the students working directly with a wide assortment of materials and machines, including a new large plastic press. Drawing students made actual plans for homes, while students in mechanics overhauled cars. Modernized textbooks were used in plastics and drawing.

Two new teachers helped staff this department, which taught many important and useful skills.

GOGGLES AND TORCHES were used by Tom Cole and Harlan Hartstein, juniors, as they worked on a project in metals class.

ROUGHNESS WAS COMMON but not intentional in boys soccer. Outdoor sports were used to complete the boys' physical development.

SHIN GUARDS PROTECTED the girls' knees from flying sticks in outdoor hockey. Varied outdoor activity was part of the girls' Physical Education program.

Gyms Stresses Fitness

Southeast's physical education department worked hard to provide students the opportunity to develop physical skills for both their health and their enjoyment.

Changes in personnel and teaching systems were seen throughout the department. Girls met two new teachers and adjusted to a grading system in which they were graded strictly on skills and knowledge. The boys' department also added one new instructor to its staff. For the first time, physical education was required only of sophomores and was elective for juniors and seniors.

Swimming, archery, tennis, basketball, volleyball, softball, and several individual sports were taught to both boys and girls. Junior girls received instruction in modern dance, and boys were coached in touch football, calisthenics, and wrestling. Sportsmanship, an equally important part of physical education, was expected of all students.

New Library Privileges

Serving students and faculty in an efficient manner was the goal of the Southeast librarians, headed by Mr. B.G. Greeley, and assisted by 20 library proctors.

An atmosphere of discovery permeated the typical quiet of the library. Students were able, for the first time, to check out paintings from a collection in the library. The library also planned to increase its collection by buying the top award winners from the annual Southeast Art Show. Another innovation enabled students to check out taped music from the tape library. Students who had already read the 12,000 books in the library were offered variety as 1,000 new books were added to the previous collection. Two other projects which were very successful were the paperback book exchange, at which students traded old books, and the book fair where new paperbacks were sold.

Many sets of reference books, supplemented by the magazine reference room and the information file, provided students and faculty with a complete library in which to seek countless answers.

Workers Kept Building Clean, Prepared Lunch Menus

Southeast's custodial staff, headed by Mr. Charles Knight, worked long hours to keep the school and grounds clean and in good condition. The work load was the hardest during August and in the spring preparing for the opening and the closing of school. Two custodians and one matron worked during the day, and eight were employed at night. Among their many duties were replacing light tubes, washing lockers and windows, cleaning floors, and helping keep the cafeteria clean.

Preparing hot lunches for 2200 students was certainly not an easy task, but the cafeteria staff worked hard to feed those hungry students and teachers. Their day began at 7:00 o'clock in the morning and continued until after the lunch hour. Meals had to be prepared, then served, and the cafeteria cleaned up before the day's work was over. They also served a meal to parents and teachers at open house in the fall. Mrs. Frances Wagner served as head of the cafeteria staff. Eleven students assisted the staff in certain capacities, working at the dishwasher, carrying hot foods, silverware, trays, and dishes and helping at the buffet sandwich line. They received pay in addition to a free lunch.

Instrumentalists Performed For Concerts, At Games

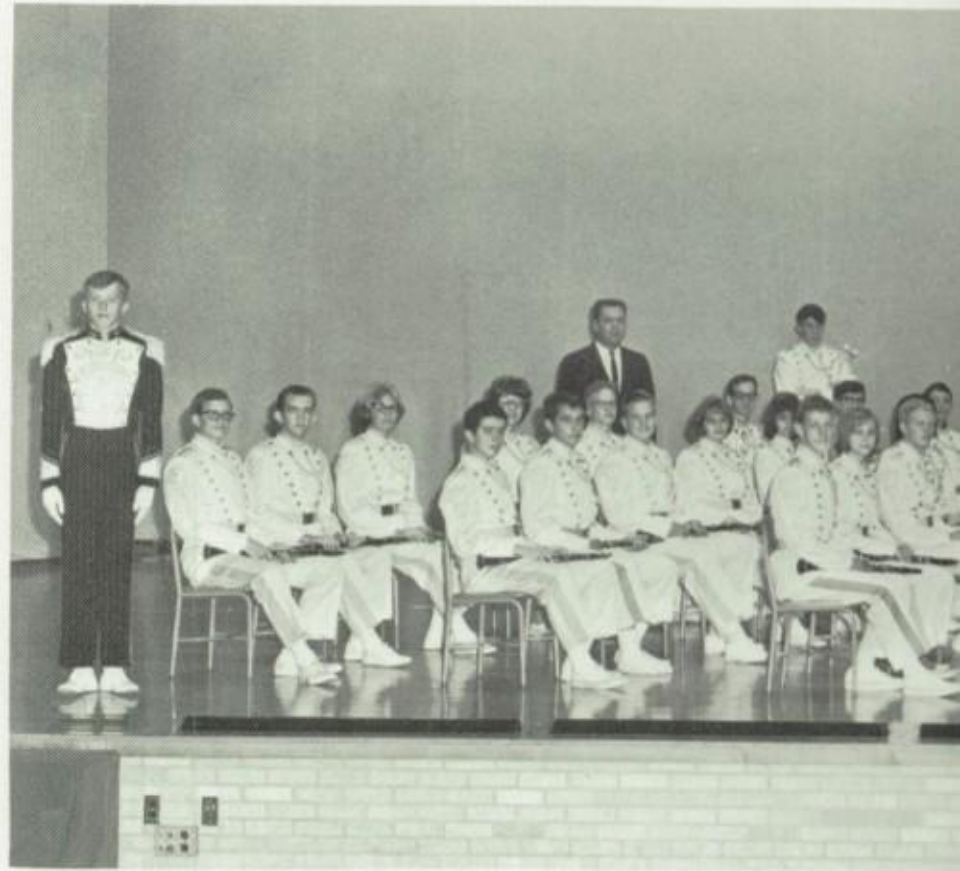

"Newness" characterized the Instrumental Music Department as Mr. Thayne Tolle became the director and brought with him several innovations. For the Southeast Band, consisting of 80 members, the first part of the year was devoted to marching, as the gold and white uniformed musicians presented halftime shows at four football games and participated in the annual Christmas parade. They worked hard in preparation for concerts which were presented for the public. Hours were spent perfecting the selections they played in the City Music Festival.

The orchestra was kept busy learning music for several presentations during the year. They performed in three concerts, worked with the vocal department at Easter in the Requiem, and backed senior soloists in a new concerto concert near the end of school. They, too, participated in the music festival.

Pep band, sporting new uniforms, gold blazers, white ascots, and black trousers, played and provided pep at all home basketball games and pep assemblies. Mr. Tolle also organized Southeast's first stage band, which explored and played different types and styles of jazz. Both of these organizations were extra-curricular and met in the morning before school.

Selective Groups Offered Advanced Vocal Training

"Crescendo," "accelerando"—these terms among many others became familiar to vocal music students as they transformed notes on a page into pleasing music for the enjoyment of themselves and listeners.

Mr. Vernon Nicholson directed Choraleers, Junior Misses, Madrigals, Modernaires, and Sophomore Choir. Two girls glee clubs, led by Mr. Thayne Tolle, completed the musical group, which was scaled to develop the abilities of all vocal students.

Choraleers, in their striking gold choir robes, were comprised of juniors and seniors. The group presented many programs throughout the year, including a religious program at Christmas and the Easter Requiem. The Choraleers looked forward to a tour in the spring for which they raised money by presenting a talent show.

Madrigals and Junior Misses, both select groups, presented many programs outside of school for meetings, luncheons, and television. Christmastime, especially, found them continually busy entertaining at various places.

Hundreds of index cards and stand-by suitcases were part of the debaters' lives. The debaters soon acquired some of the techniques quickly recognized as purely debate—a finger jabbing the air to make a point, or a voice raised to add emphasis to another.

The issue designated for debating this year was "Resolved: that the Federal Government should adopt a program of compulsory arbitration of labor-management disputes in basic industries." Painsstaking research, the first step in successful debating, began for some even before school started. Polishing their arguments came next. But the arguments were constantly changing, because debaters, just as they should, were learning. While competing, win or lose, new ideas were gained that could be added to their approach in order to make their particular stand even more convincing.

The ultimate incentive for all the research and practicing was being able to attend a tournament. Southeast debaters attended 24 tournaments and participated in 17 duel matches.

Students Represented School, Won Awards

Many students who made an extra academic effort were rewarded well by gaining scholarships and individual honors.

Southeast again led the city in the number of students who achieved semi-finalist ranking in the National Merit test taken when they were juniors. All 13 of these students then attained finalist standing by equaling their previous performances on the College Entrance Examination Board tests. Letters of Commendation were awarded to 17 students.

Two seniors were cited as winners in Achievement Awards competition by the National Council of Teachers of English. They each submitted an autobiography, an impromptu paper, and a prepared paper.

Students who possessed outstanding leadership qualities and excelled academically were chosen as Southeast's representatives to Girls State and Boys State. They attended during the summer and learned by actual experience about the American form of government.

In addition to reflecting the caliber of individuals and their work, these awards and many others helped to project a very favorable image of Southeast.

ACHIEVEMENT AWARDS from the National Council of Teachers of English were won by seniors Valda Aviks and Paul Zimmerman for their outstanding performance in national writing competition.

NATIONAL MERIT SEMIFINALISTS WERE: First row: Steve Missal, Jim McLaughlin, Brian Buss, Valda Aviks, Linda Finch, Judi Kornfeld, and Sharon Park.

Second row: Bill Basow, Chris Winter, Paul Zimmerman, Jack Krebs, Curtis DeMuth, and Bill Case.

BETTY CROCKER HOMEMAKER of the Year Award was won by senior Margaret McKinney.

MAINTAINING a seven-semester 4.0 average was senior Mary Lippitt.

Journalists Produced Yearbook, Newspapers

Lights burned in the night in C-3 as journalism students, under the guidance of Mr. Frank Jensen, prepared to meet yearbook deadlines and at the same time published a weekly newspaper. Practical skills in publishing were supplemented by various other experiences such as learning a sense of responsibility, cooperation, and doing prompt accurate work.

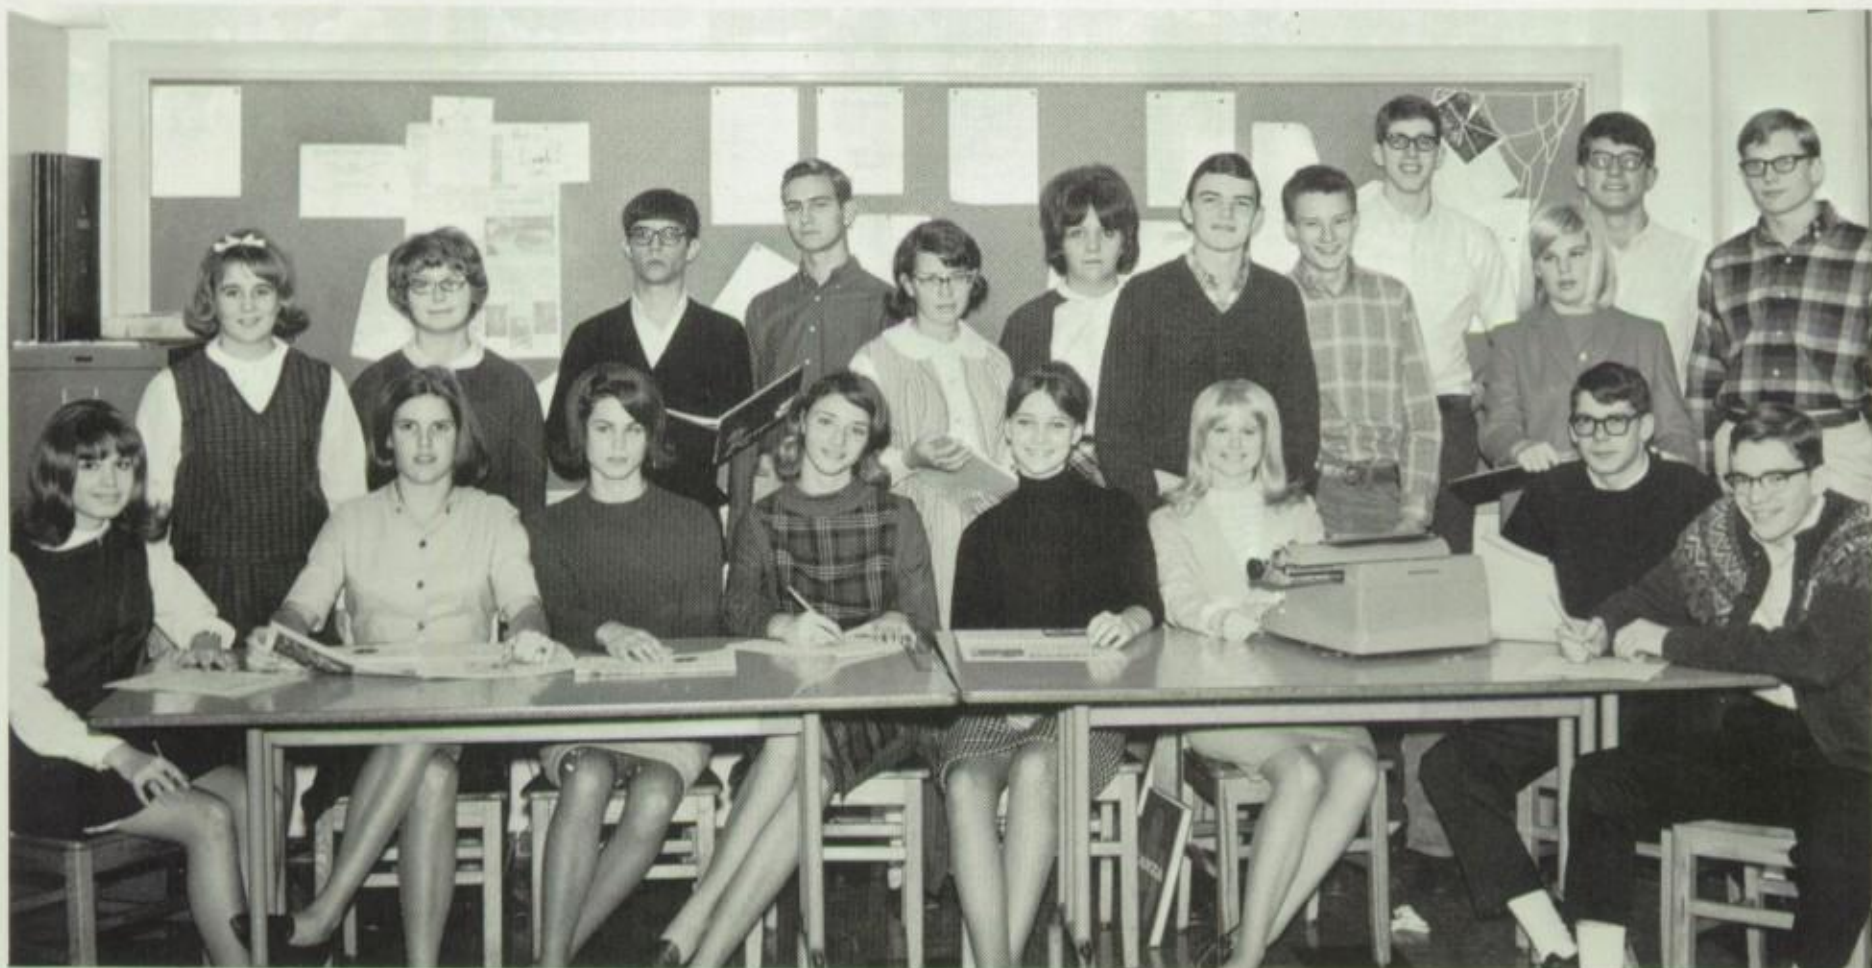

Two weeks before the Friday distributions, Stampede staffers began to cover their "beats" to gather material for feature and news stories. In order to support their paper, the journalists "took to the streets" to sell approximately 3300 inches of advertising.

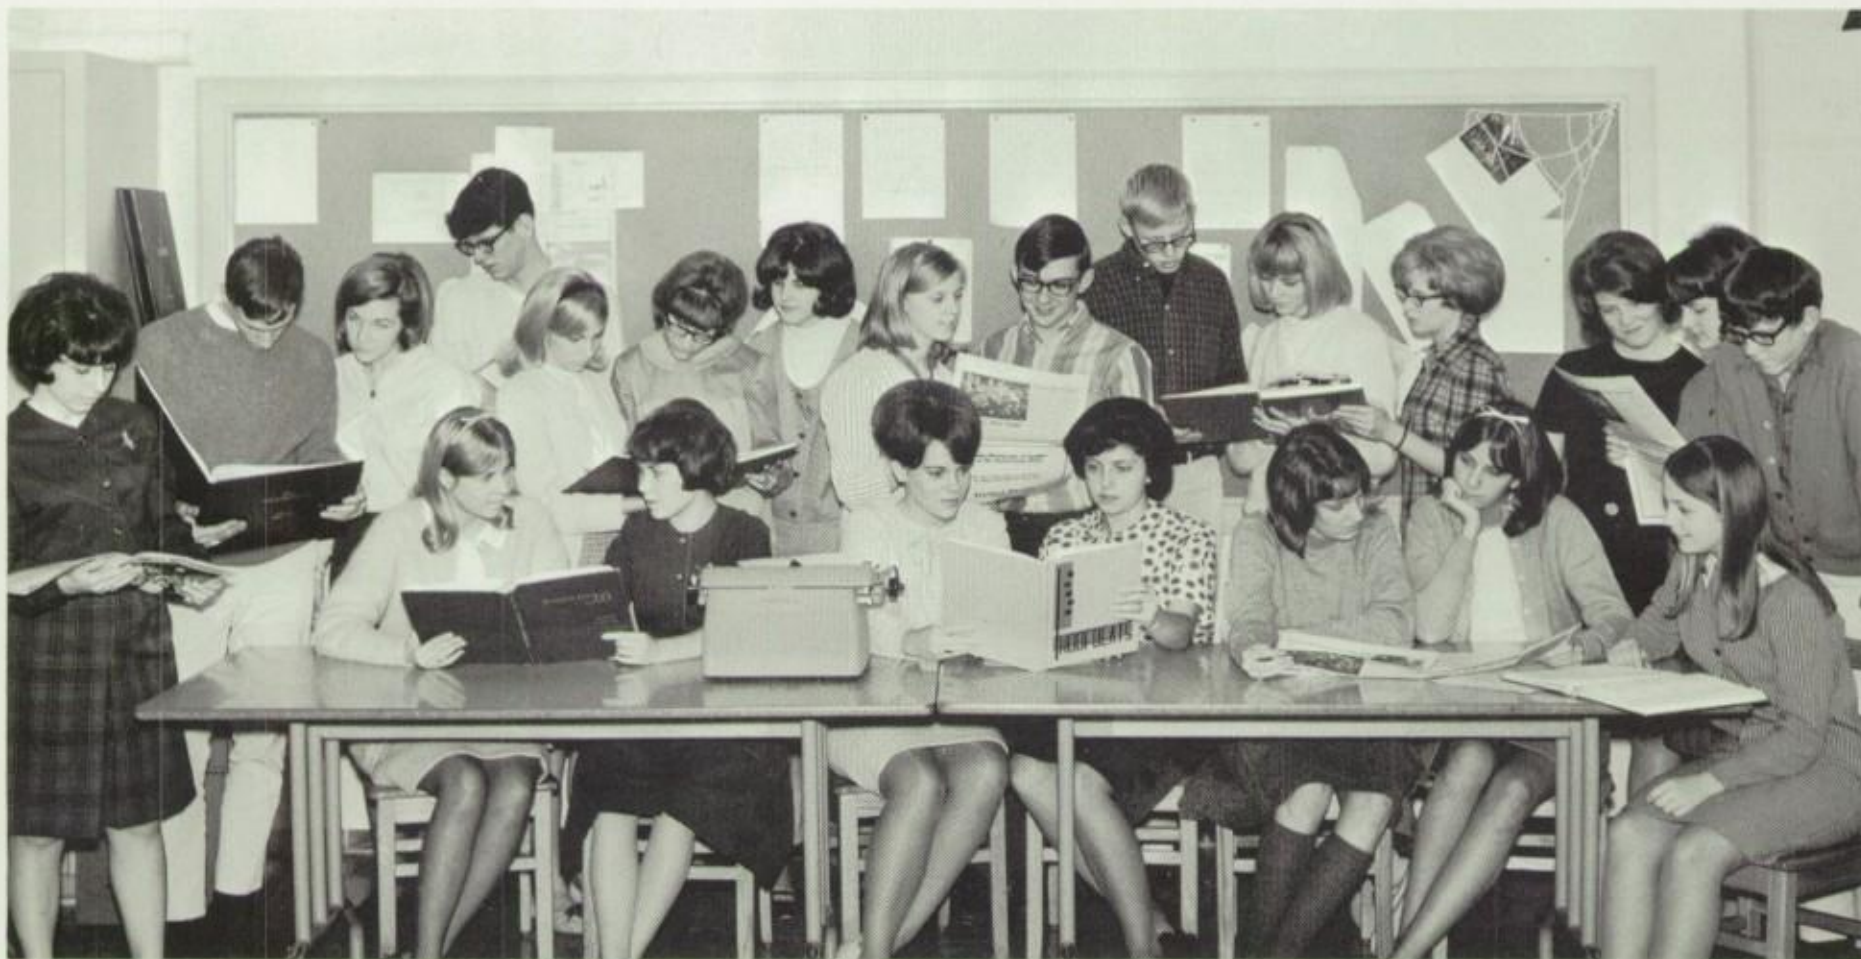

Hoofbeats staff spent hours both during and outside of school to be able to present students with a meaningful yearbook that will be a lasting reminder of their years at Southeast. Summer meetings initiated first year students into the routine of journalism and other students attempted to acquire more helpful knowledge by attending summer journalism workshops on college campuses.

EDITORS OF THE STAMPEDE, Southeast's student newspaper, were seated: fourth hour editors Bill Basow, first semester, and Mary Mitchell, second semester, and standing: fifth hour editors Carol Cooper, first semester, and Pat Findeiss, second semester.

MEMBERS OF THE FOURTH HOUR JOURNALISM CLASS WERE: Seated: Mary Mitchell, Leanne Daggett, Judy Randall, Kay Miller, Janet Fox, Karen Scott, John Bowman, and Carey Brown. Standing: Ellen Bartlett, Helen Sutherland, John Schmitt, David Schnedler, Mary Hubbard, Debbi Harper, Brent Branham, Dave Thompson, Bill Basow, Nancy Gear, Maurice Cougher, and John Schuermann.

MEMBERS OF THE FIFTH HOUR JOURNALISM CLASS WERE: Seated: Beth Bloyd, Dian Overfield, Bev Gerhardt, Mary Lippitt, Chris Poelma, Sally Steele, and Rosi Proffitt. Standing: Kathy Kelly, Art Chapman, Kathy Hodge, Ted

Student Life Assumed Different Dimensions

In that time of their lives the students did live, and they lived in many dimensions.

School was only one dimension, but it involved many facets. "No Loitering" signs greeted students at the first of the year as they came to Southeast as "old pros" or as beginners. But few of them found time to loiter, and as the year progressed, few even cared to. They discovered that filling time with poster parties, decorating cars for games, attending victory dances, or socializing over a hot pizza was much more exciting.

Classrooms teemed with inquiring students, with puzzled students, and occasionally with sleeping students. Assemblies were anticipated, especially the three class assemblies in which all students had an opportunity to participate. Juniors presented "Happiness Is," and sophomores staged "Wild, Woolley, and Wicked" to the approval of their fellow students.

With Christmas came other activities and the perpetration of several traditions. A huge tree of lights on the east side of the auditorium was Southeast's contribution to the gaiety of this season. Students began a nine-day vacation in the holiday spirit, thanks to Mr. Jacob, who led the entire student body in the annual Christmas sing.

As each student reflected on the school year, thousands of memories came to mind. But the first memory was that at that time, they lived.

AUDIENCE AND PERFORMERS joined together in singing Christmas carols in the Christmas Sing, an informal assembly presented by the vocal music department.

WHEN MORRIS came to call, Catherine felt self-conscious; her father felt suspicious, in this scene from "The Heiress."

AUNT PENNIMAN consoled Catherine after she was deserted by Morris on their wedding night.

"The Heiress" Presented By Advanced Drama

"A very beautifully written love story," was the way Miss Ruth McCormick, drama instructor, described "The Heiress," Southeast's fall play, presented by advanced drama students Nov. 18 and 19.

"The Heiress" was a two part play from the Victorian period, and told the story of the search of a love-starved girl for happiness. In the play, Catherine fell desperately in love with a young fortune hunter who had his eyes on her money. But the girl's father foresaw the results and forbid the planned marriage. Catherine was not to be daunted and soon conceived plans for eloping. However, the suitor was not completely convinced of the benefits of eloping. Catherine was broken hearted. The climax came as the suitor returned and was rejected by a wiser Catherine.

Principal cast members for the play were; Linda Bechtold, Catherine; Walt Rising, Morris Townsend; Eddie Poston, Catherine's father; Cindy Davee, Aunt Penniman; Sue Kratochvil, Mrs. Montgomery; Sharon Jones, Marion; Mike Mesh, her fiance; Betty Aboussie, Maria; Diane Knox, Mrs. Townsend.

LEAVING MORRIS pounding at the door, Catherine prepared to retire in this scene from the climax of the play.

Winter Play, Gentlemen Prefer Blondes, Presented

GATHERED AROUND the Victrola were flappers Susan Whitehead, Nancy Beck, Lorelei Lee, Dorothy, and Aunt Dolly.

"Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," a zany comedy of the flapper period, was the drama department's winter production, presented Mar. 2-3 in the auditorium.

Taken from a book by Anita Loos, the play involved two young girls, Lorelei Lee and Dorothy, her girl friend, who went to Europe to complete their education against the better judgment of Lorelei's father.

Considerate and naive Lorelei, the blonde whom the gentlemen preferred, decided to pose as a woman of the world to impress a wealthy young man. Henry, the wealthy fellow, was unable to make decisions for himself, but Lorelei was eager to change this.

Miss Ruth McCormick, Southeast drama instructor, directed the play.

Principle cast members for "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" were: Lorelei Lee, Barby Bauer; Dorothy, Pam Myrick; Mr. Lee, Larry Myer; Henry, Bill Andrews; and Sam, Mike Mesh.

Justin, Sylvia, and Margaret.

EXCITED about the proposed marriage were Lorelei Lee and Henry.

APPLYING STAGE makeup and adjusting costumes brought about the transition of students into play characters.

Harvey, King Crowned At "Imperial Palace"

An oriental atmosphere pervaded throughout the evening of November 4, at Southeast's seventh annual Junior-Senior Prom, "The Imperial Palace." Long dresses and tuxedos were the order as couples gathered at the Cotillion Ballroom and danced to the music of the "Serfs."

Decorations followed the oriental theme. Couples were met at the door by six sophomore boys wearing karate robes, and, as they entered the ballroom, passed over flower-bedecked bridges. A large fountain in the center of the dance floor highlighted the decorations. Presiding as Master of Ceremonies was student body president, Steve Randle.

Seniors Jackie King and Fred Harvey reigned as king and queen. Senior attendants to the royalty were Cathy Henkel, John Robinson, Karen Rice, and Bruce Clark; junior attendants were Chrissie Linthicum, Jerry Tatum, Nancy Lobrecht, and Gary Matassarini.

ALL EYES were on King Fred and Queen Jackie as they took the floor for the royal dance.

With Activities

Student Body Officers Led School Activities

Qualities of leadership are brought out only through actual experience. Many students were given the opportunity to lead, and accepted the responsibilities which accompany this experience.

One student from each first hour class was elected to represent his class at Student Relations Board meetings. Through this method of representation it was hoped that there would be a closer link between the student body and decisions made which concerned them.

Student Lounge committee worked fourth hour transforming the foyer of the auditorium into a place where students could relax during lunch hour. Music was provided for dancing and cokes were sold.

Eight students represented Southeast on the city-wide Youth Board. They joined members from all other Wichita high schools in discussing and seeking solutions to the problems which frequently confronted youth.

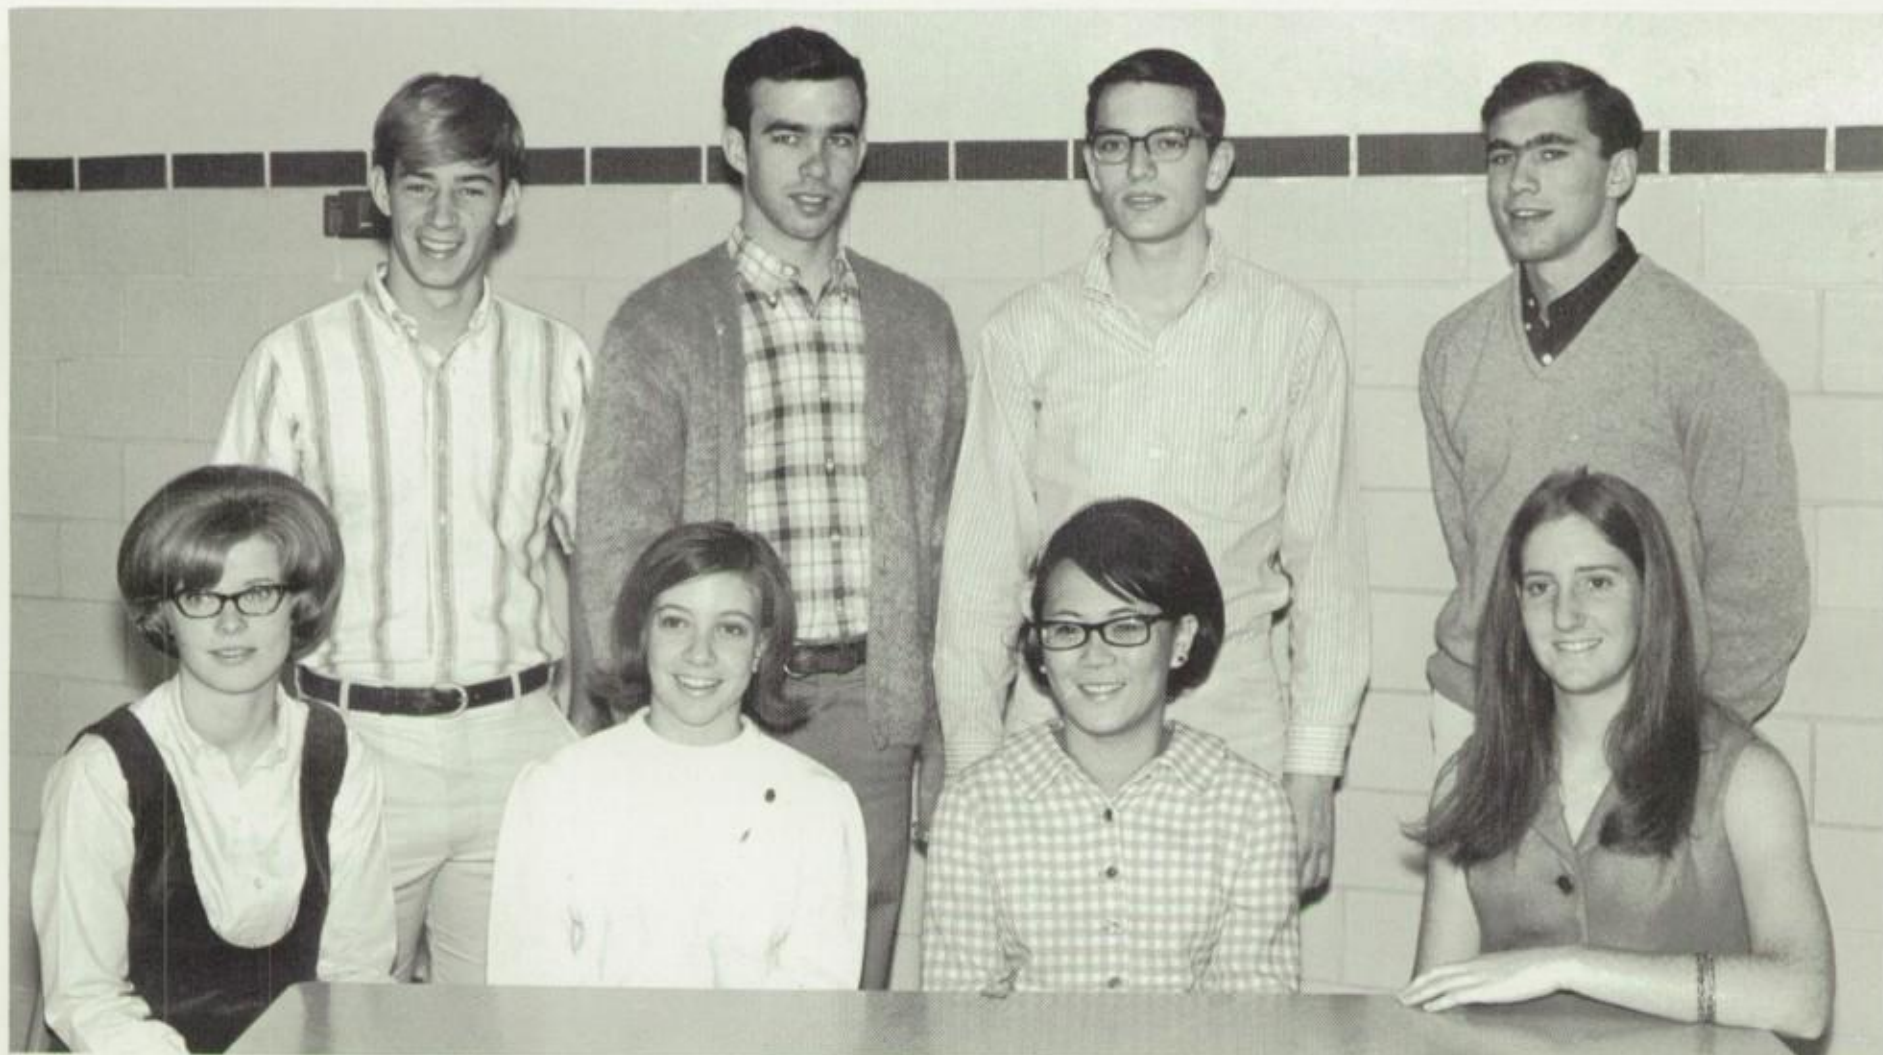

The Directors of Finance, Publications, Elections, and the All-School Project worked in specialized capacities serving the school and their fellow students.

STUDENT OFFICERS WERE: Carol Hinshaw, secretary of Student Relations Board; Bob Sink, vice-chairman of Student Relations Board; Randy Youle, Student Body Vice President; Steve Randle, Student Body President.

MEMBERS OF STUDENT LOUNGE COMMITTEE WERE: Mike Reed, John Zongker, Jan Daves, Karen Rank, Jenifer Otwell, Brian Buss, Linda Garner, Bob Sink,

And Thespian Activities

Thespus, a Greek, and the world's first actor, set the stage for the fine art of drama and provided the name for Thespians, a national honorary dramatic society. Fifteen to twenty Southeast dramatists who had earned sufficient points by working on plays were honored with membership in Thespians. Aided by their sponsor, Miss Ruth McCormick, the club actively backed major productions and took an out-of-town trip to see a stage show. Thespians worked to live up to their slogan, "Act well your part, there all the honor lies."

A mixture of guitar strumming, singing, and interpretation provided for an interesting year for Folk Music club, newly formed this year. Mr. Mike Dietrich led the group, which explored all of the different aspects of folk music. During most of the weekly meetings the club divided into specific interest groups in which the members could pursue individual interests in more depth.

French club provided members the opportunity to acquaint themselves with French customs and the French language. Membership was open to both past and present French students who wished to further their knowledge through the opportunities provided by French club. Monthly programs presented included French films, skits, and games such as Bingo, played in French. Hours of planning and preparation by club members culminated in the annual French banquet for all French students in April. Mrs. Helen Hageman and Mrs. Erica Barron sponsored the club.

Customs of Spanish speaking people and their language were explored by Spanish club. Sponsored by the three Spanish teachers, Miss Dorothy Reynolds, Mrs. Helen Hiebert, and Mr. Frank Martinez, club members planned several parties and dinners. In addition, as a service project, the club helped to feed a needy family. A high point came near the end of the school year as members participated in the annual Spanish fiesta for all Spanish students.

"It is for you to determine what you wish" rehearsed David Casper to Julia Dicken and Mary Meserve, juniors, and Nancy Barton, sophomore, as they practiced for a Latin skit.

Dancing a German polka in native costumes were seniors Chris Winter and Jackie Clark as club members Julie Ward and Brian Buss watched.

And Traditions Studied

Any student interested in the Germanic culture and people was given the opportunity to pursue this interest further in German club, sponsored by Mr. Allen Schmidt, German teacher. Members expanded their knowledge of German customs and cultures through many novel and entertaining ways. Programs consisted of such varied things as slides, films, lectures, speakers, music, plays, panels, and an occasional party. The club also undertook several new projects, and the broadest one was their attempt to interest German clubs of schools in starting an all-city German council.

Promoting interest in Latin and the classics as the primary purpose of Latin club, sponsored by Mrs. Mary Chambers, Latin teacher. For the members, the highlight of the year was Saturnalia, an annual city-wide Latin student Christmas party, on Dec. 11. Adding to the interest and excitement the Saturnalia usually generates was the fact that, for the first time, it was being held at Southeast. Any student who was, or had been, a Latin student or who had a genuine interest in the classics was welcome to participate in the Latin club.

Pinning tags on Gary Isbell, senior, for Latin Week was Barbby Turner, sophomore. The tags said, "Sum Latina discipula" which means "I am a Latin student."

Honorary Societies Accept Members On Basis Of Work

Three seniors received recognition for their outstanding work in journalism by being accepted into Quill and Scroll, honorary journalism society, sponsored at Southeast by Mr. Frank Jensen. They joined Bill Basow, who was initiated last year. To be accepted, the student must have 100 inches published in the newspaper and be in the upper one-third of his class.

National Forensic League, honorary speech and debate organization, sponsored by Mr. William Robinson, honored outstanding debaters with membership. At Southeast, their main project for the year was sponsoring and invitational debate tournament, in which debate teams from all over Kansas participated.

An interest in science was the only requirement for membership in the Science and Math club. It provided various scientifically basic activities for its members. Among these activities were taking field trips to places of interest, and listening to special speakers. In addition, a two-way learning process was achieved as each member was required to give at least one report on some aspect of science. Mr. Clinton Kaufman, sponsored the club.

Future nurses, doctors, and others interested in a medical profession, were exposed to careers in health and medicine in Medical Careers club. With their sponsor, Mrs. Margaret Walters, school nurse, the club took field trips, visited dentists' and physicians' offices, saw films, and heard speakers in order to pursue their interest in the field. Among their major projects, the Medical Careers club helped with Operation Holiday at Christmas time and joined other Wichita schools in a visit to K.U. Medical Center in the spring.

Y-Teens, a new club at Southeast this year, was an organization for Christian Fellowship and service sponsored by the YWCA. Throughout the year, the girls provided special services by visiting care homes, Christmas caroling, and doing anything they could to promote fellowship. Miss Ruth Krause sponsored the club, which was open to all girls.

There is no more appropriate place to learn about the teaching profession than at school, and in this capacity, Future Teachers club attempted to inform members about the field of education and perhaps to help them decide if they would like to become teachers. Highlights of the year for the club, sponsored by Mr. Marvin Huffman, were a trip to Manhattan for a convention and the awarding of a $50 scholarship to a member.

Students Ran Projectors; Pursued History Interests

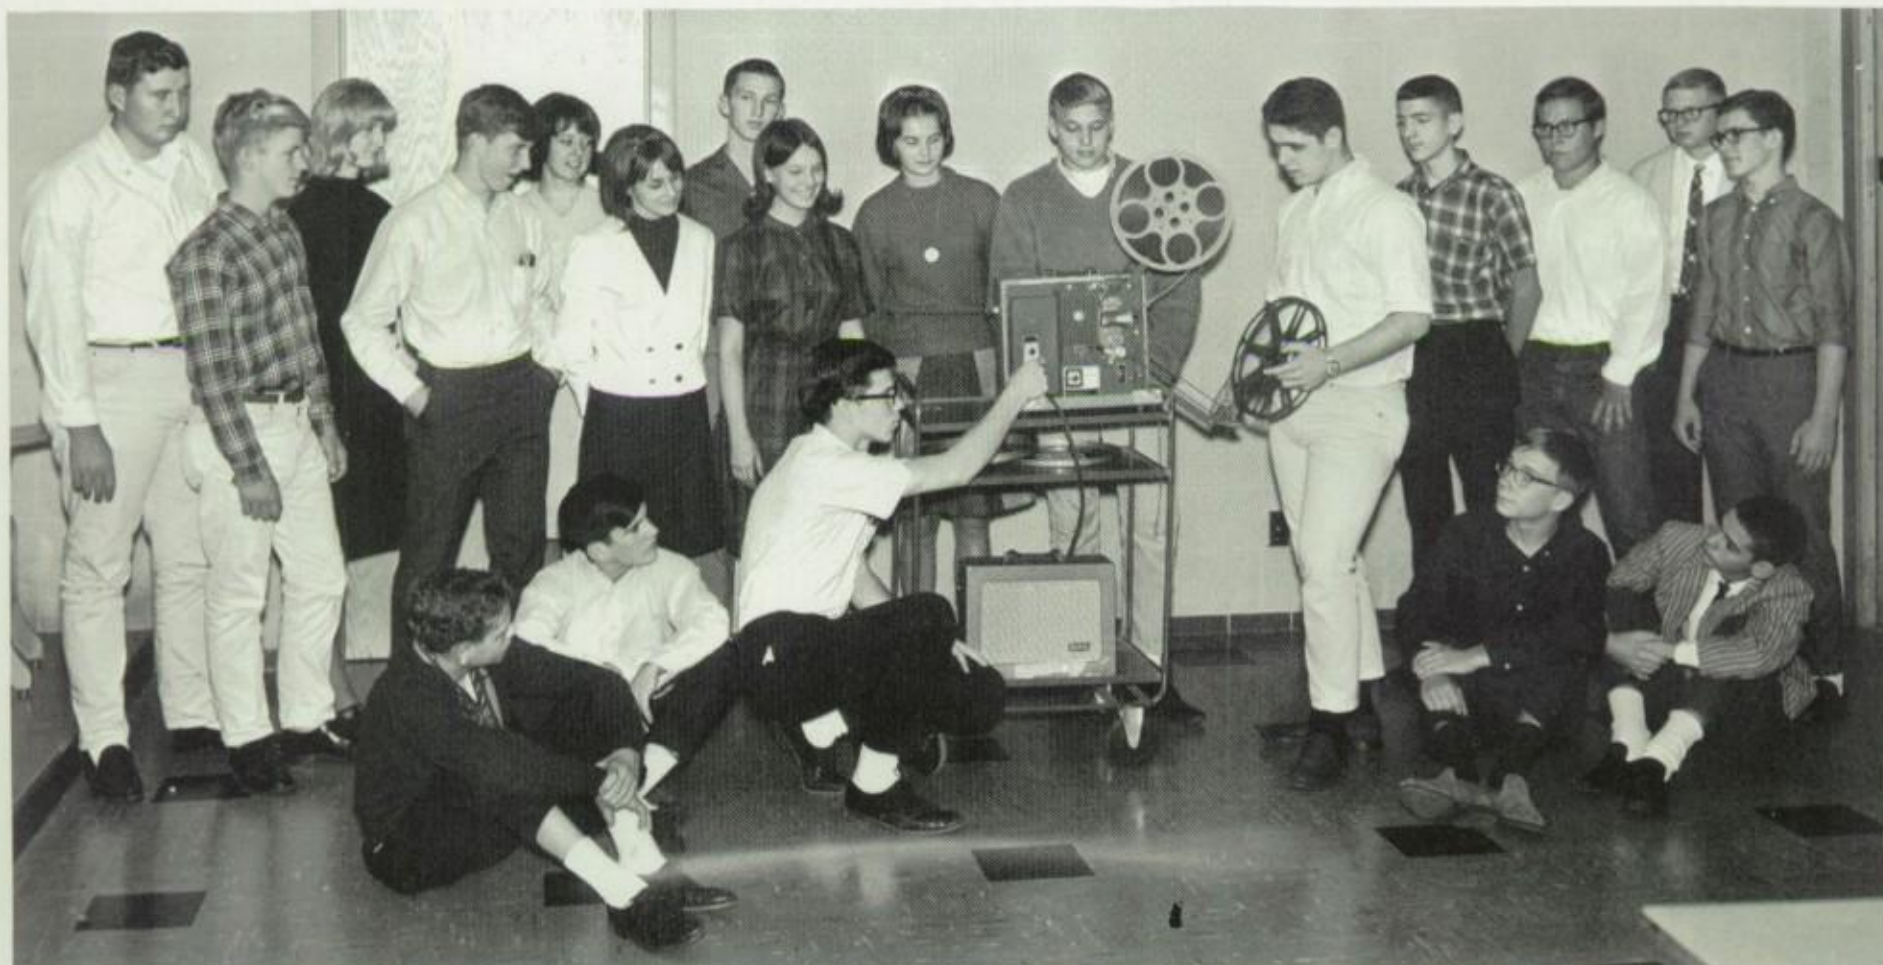

Promoting safety among the student body was the purpose of Safety club. Weekly meetings were devoted to discussing safety and how it could be encouraged in everyone. With the assistance of their sponsor, Mr. William Draut, the club members planned various projects and attended the safety convention at Topeka, Kansas.

Members of the motion-Picture Operators club donated many hours to serving their school and teachers. Students became members of this service organization, sponsored by Mr. Randy Kasper, after they were tested on the correct technique of operating motion picture projectors. The members were frequently requested to operate projectors for classes, assemblies, club meetings, and open house.

The projects of American History club were focused on the museum which the club maintains. Assisted by their sponsor, Mrs. Tillie Smith, the club organized and collected pieces for the American History museum in H-2. Among the articles already obtained were original Civil War papers and periodicals dating back to the 1850's.

Proctors Served School; Sacrificed Study Time

Many students voluntarily gave up their hour of study hall to serve the faculty and students.

Courtesy proctors were stationed near the entrances of the building to assist visitors entering the school. The counselors' proctors delivered guidance slips to students and did whatever errands the counselors asked. Office assistances aided secretaries by collecting absence slips, filling out attendance cards, and running miscellaneous errands. Three girls worked in the office each hour.

Volunteer students worked in the bookstore and sold supplies to teachers and students. Profits from the bookstore were used to improve the school. Nurse's assistants worked in the health room helping Mrs. Walters in many ways. They received students' admit slips, took temperatures, made student health reports, and kept the health room in order.

Exercise, Coordination, Grace, Offered To Girls

Girls skilled or interested in synchronized swimming were given a chance to work with rhythms and use creative ability in Sea Sprites, sponsored by Mrs. Betty Fugit. The top 20 girls in stunt competition were on the varsity, which provided shows for certain occasions. Performing in a water show for open house and entertaining at the all-school project were among the highlights for the club during the year.

Participation in after school sports, in which they must earn a total of 550 points, qualified girls for the Letterwomens club. The club, sponsored by Miss Wilma Lee, attempted to interest other girls in sports activities both for enjoyment and physical fitness. They also worked with the physical education department in sponsoring a mother-daughter bowling night, a play day for 9th graders in the spring, and hosted other schools in certain competitive sports.

"The Butterflies," better known by their French name "Les Papillions," joined together to promote further ability and interest in modern dance. Twenty-six girls were selected for membership by auditions. Modern Dance club, sponsored by Mrs. Ruby Schrader, danced for musical programs, assemblies and plays during the year.

Athletes Worked For Letters; Rifle Handling Learned

Teaching members the safe use of firearms was the main objective of Rifle club, sponsored by Mr. Glenn Clark and Mr. Merle Mintz. Text book study began first, followed by a proficiency test in which the members were checked on correct procedure for handling rifles. After passing the test, students went to the shooting range for actual practice. Teams were later formed for competition with other schools. The highlight of the year was the tournament at W.S.U. for which the members practiced diligently in hopes of placing high, both for themselves and as representatives of their school.

As a service organization of Southeast, Lettermen's club honored boys who had earned a letter in competitive athletics. Among their many projects throughout the year were selling programs at home basketball and football games, and selling buff booster pins to students. The boys also helped at pep assemblies and raised money in various ways to purchase two-way phones for the football team.

School Spirit, Interest

Gold and white pom poms waving wildly, and over 600 girls not even trying to contain their excitement aptly described the scene of games, as the Pep club followed Southeast's teams devoutly.

A new system was initiated in which members were required to attend a certain number of games or be dropped from the club. Guided by Mrs. Shirlene Silvertooth, Pep club chartered buses to Hutchinson for a football game and traveled to Salina to back the basketball team, supported needy families at Thanksgiving and Christmas, and carried out a goodwill tradition by hosting another Pep club at a pre-game dinner.

At the end of the year during the annual awards dinner, Pep club honored their out-going officers as those for the coming year were announced.

Yelling for "Thunder," Southeast's six varsity cheerleaders led the student body in deafening support of the athletic teams. The girls also worked up peppy pom pom routines and cheered at pep assemblies.

"B" cheerleaders helped back the "B" teams and sophomores at their games.

SYMBOL OF VICTORY was Head Coach Marvin Vandaveer who was thrown into the pool by his happy players after the victory over South.

Playing in streaks of three, the Southeast football team, under the direction of Head Coach Marvin Vandever, compiled a record of six wins and three losses and tied for second in the City League.

The team opened with three straight wins and then underwent a complete reversal in form losing their next three before coming back to win the last three games of the season.

The team showed its strongest combination of offense and defense in the last three games. They defeated Bishop Carroll 27-0, North 32-0, and South 28-0.

Several Southeast players gained individual recognition at the end of the season. Mike Reed, senior end, was named first team All-City and second team All-State, and Lee Stucky, senior guard was first team All-City and third team All-State.

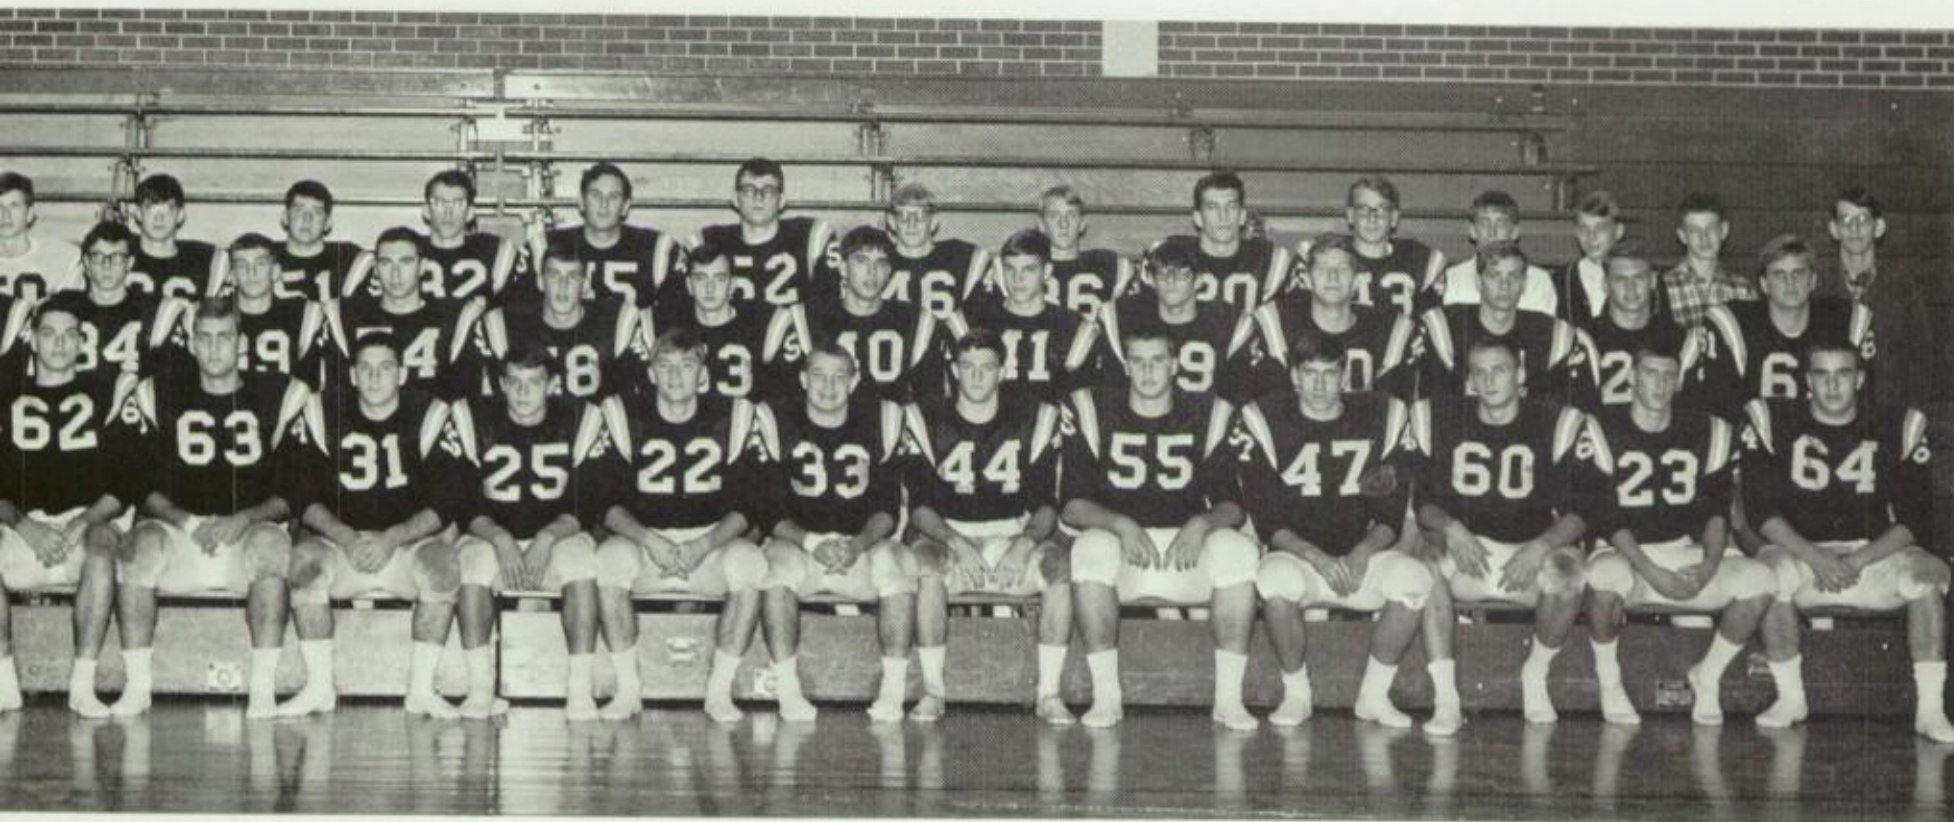

A number of juniors gained experience for next year by playing on the "B" team. The "B" team had a record of two wins and three losses. The Sophomore team started slowly but became stronger as the year progressed and finished with a record of two wins and five losses.

KICKING THROUGH THE GOAL POSTS was Robbie Melzer as he recorded an extra point in the North Game. Southeast won this league game by a score of 32-0.

"NOW THIS IS HOW YOU DO IT," instructed Head Coach Marvin Vandaveer as he diagrammed a play during a chalk talk.

CLOSING IN to make the tackle were two Southeast players during a "B" game with North.

Galen Gill Crowned At Southeast Homecoming

Strains of "Embraceable You" set an appropriate background as Southeast's 1965 Homecoming Queen, Galen Gill, was crowned during half-time ceremonies of the Southeast-East football game, played at Veteran's Field, October 22.

Queen Galen, escorted by Rod Wilkin, was attended by Nancy Griggs and Jenny Jones, whose escorts were Mike Reed and Jim Fritze-meier.

Framed by the band and Pep club on the field, Galen was presented with a dozen long-stemmed red roses and received the traditional kiss. Nancy and Jenny were each given gold mum corsages.

After the game, the royalty was honored at the annual Homecoming dance in the cafeteria. There they were presented with jewelry by the student council, and Galen was given a football autographed by the varsity football players.

As the 1965 Homecoming festivities drew to a close, Galen and Rod took the floor to begin the last dance, "Ebb Tide."

THE NINE CANDIDATES, Blanche Alvarado, Jackie King, Nancy Harmon, Diane Gadberry, and Anita Showalter, seated, and Carol Hinshaw, Sheri

WITH THE SOUNDING of the starting gun, runners in the Southeast Invitational Meet, surged forward.

Plagued By Injuries

Misfortune marred the 1965-66 season for the Southeast cross country team. Two of the three returning lettermen, Ken Breeden and Richard Schmidt were unable to run, so the team was left with only one experienced runner, John Hodges.

Rigorous two-hour workouts after school and individual conditioning prepared harriers for competition run over a two-mile course. Echo Hills golf course was the site of most of the meets. Coach Charles Hatter said, "There are two key words for conditioning, work and rest."

The season was climaxed by the Regional meet and the State meet, in which Southeast was represented by Jeff Evans.

Golden Buffs Tie For Third In City Competition

CUTTING BETWEEN two West defenders, Rod Wilkin drove for a layup.

Greeted by 600 Pep club girls and "Sweet Georgia Brown," Southeast's basketball squad took the court to post their sixth straight winning season, although they failed in an attempt at a third consecutive city crown.

The Buffs recorded nine wins and five losses to give them a tie for third place in the Greater Wichita Athletic League, thought by many to be the most balanced race in years.

Wichita West captured the city league championship with a 13-1 record, their only defeat coming at the hands of the Golden Buffaloes.

Southeast suffered costly overtime losses to Wichita Heights and to Leavenworth in the Coffeyville Tournament, while they won close games against North, once in overtime and once on a last-second basket.

Paced by Ross Alexander, top team scorer and city scoring champion for the second year, and Mike Reed, the team's leading rebounder, the Buffs were in contention for the league title throughout most of the season.

The "B" team, coached by Mr. Don Schmidt, and the sophomore team, by Mr. Vernon Smith, provided playing experience for boys who will form the nucleus of next year's city contenders.

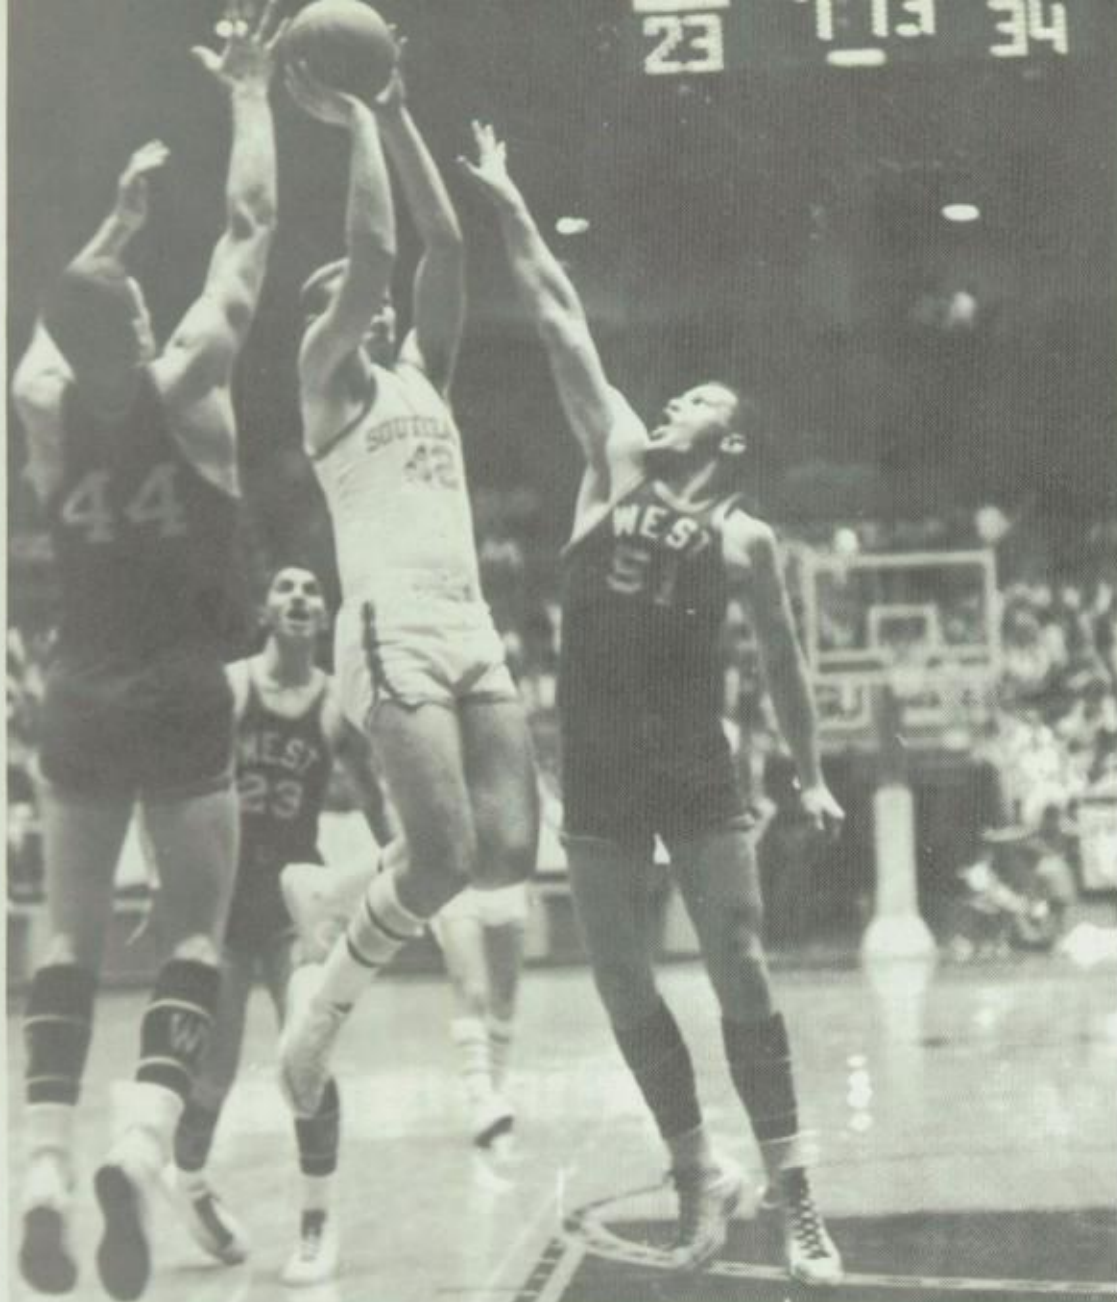

ALL EYES were on the free-throw attempt of Lee Stucky as he tried to put Southeast in front in the last seconds of overtime in the North game.

Cyndi Chosen To Reign As Southeast Sweetheart

Mid-court at the Field House was an unlikely place to receive a kiss, but Cyndi Beal did as she was officially crowned Basketball Sweetheart for 1966 during half-time ceremonies of the SE-North basketball game, Jan. 28.

Crowning Cyndi and presenting her with the traditional red roses was her escort, Ross Alexander, who was also to crown the memorable evening with a Southeast victory by sinking the winning shot as the final buzzer sounded.

Cyndi was attended by Blanche Alvarado, escorted by Mike Reed, and Sherri Spivey, escorted by Rod Wilkin. Blanche and Sherri received mum corsages during the ceremony.

The nine other candidates, wearing bright red outfits and crowns, viewed the game from the front row of the Pep club, and were presented with white carnation corsages.

Festivities for the 1966 Basketball Sweetheart were not over until Saturday night, when the royalty were honored at a dance in the cafeteria. There Cyndi was given a necklace with an engraved heart and a charm bracelet with a gold basketball charm, and Blanche and Sherri were both presented with charm bracelets, tangible reminders of a pleasant memory.

No biting, scratching, kicking, or pulling hair, Southeast's wrestlers were told at the first of the season, no matter how tempting it might be. Actually, wrestling is a technical sport, involving much training and constant practice to perfect holds.

Practice hours, and there were many, were spent with calisthenics, learning and improving holds, and running to get into shape. Shortly before meets intra-squad matches were held to determine who would wrestle in competition.

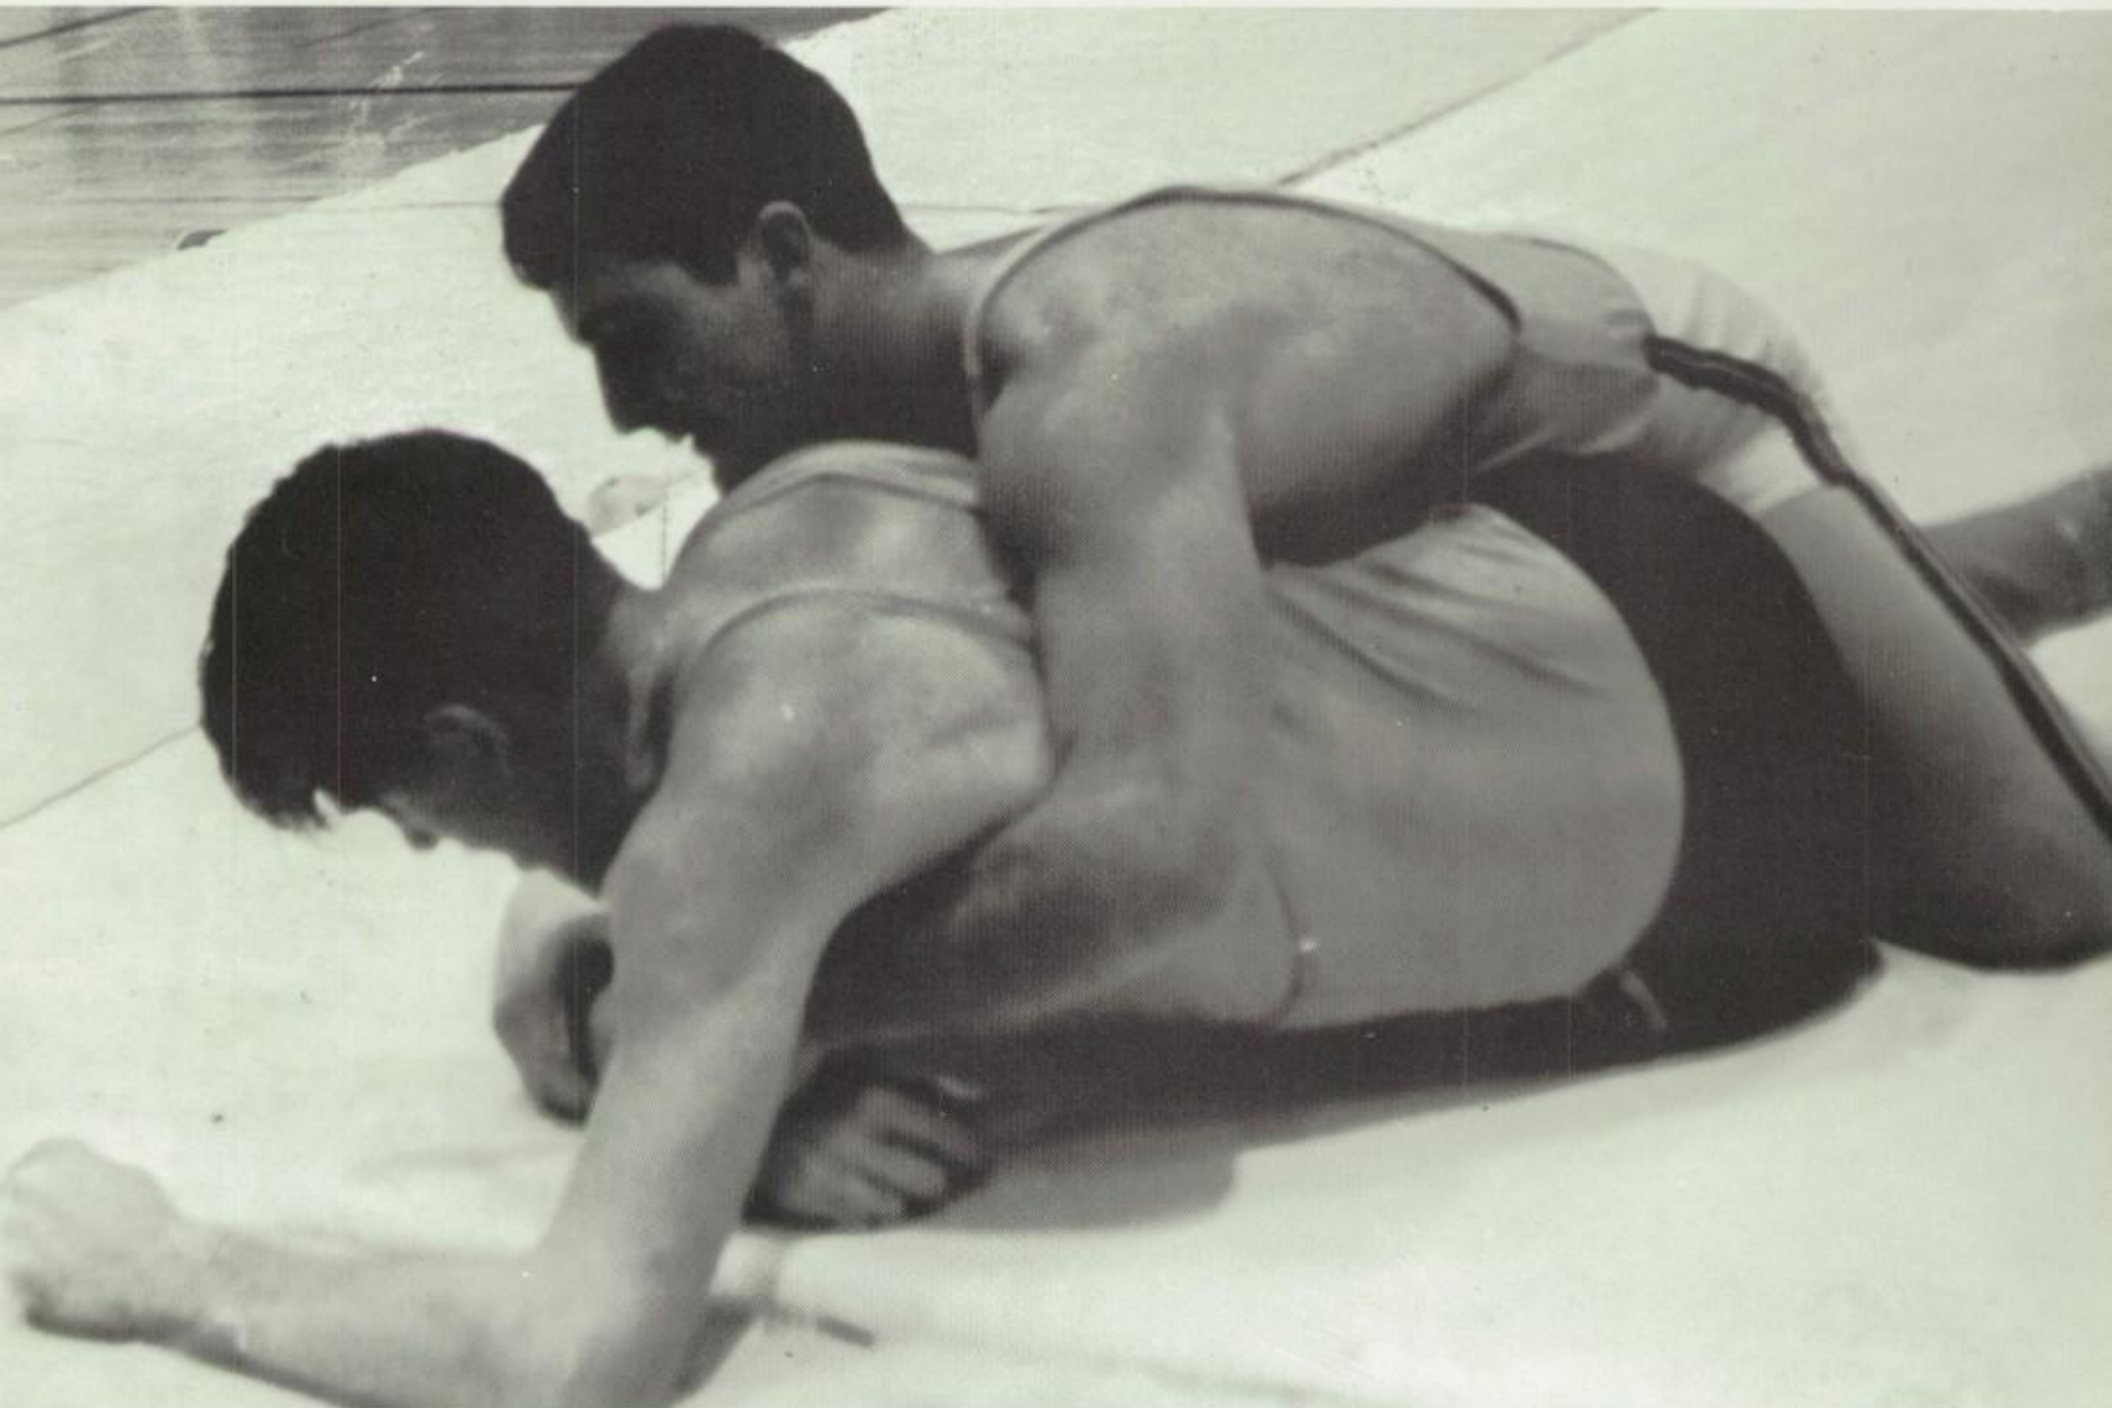

Although the wrestlers won only two of their ten meets, juniors and sophomores gained valuable experience which will add team strength next season.

Jim Fritzemeier, who wrestled at the 154-lb. limit was the only squad member to qualify for Regional competition.

Fritzemeier, Glasgow, Hegge, C. Isbell, G. Isbell, Johnson, Randle, West, and Zonker—all received letters this year, along with the managers, Taylor and Campbell.

Buffalo Swimmers Earn Second In City League

A stop watch clicked off time as Southeast's Water Buffaloes put extra effort into the last lap of the race.

Extra effort helped the swimmers compile a 6-1 duel meet record and then raced them on to third place in the state contest.

The Buffs suffered their only duel loss of the season at the hands of East, but then went on to defeat the remaining city-league schools by at least 20 points.

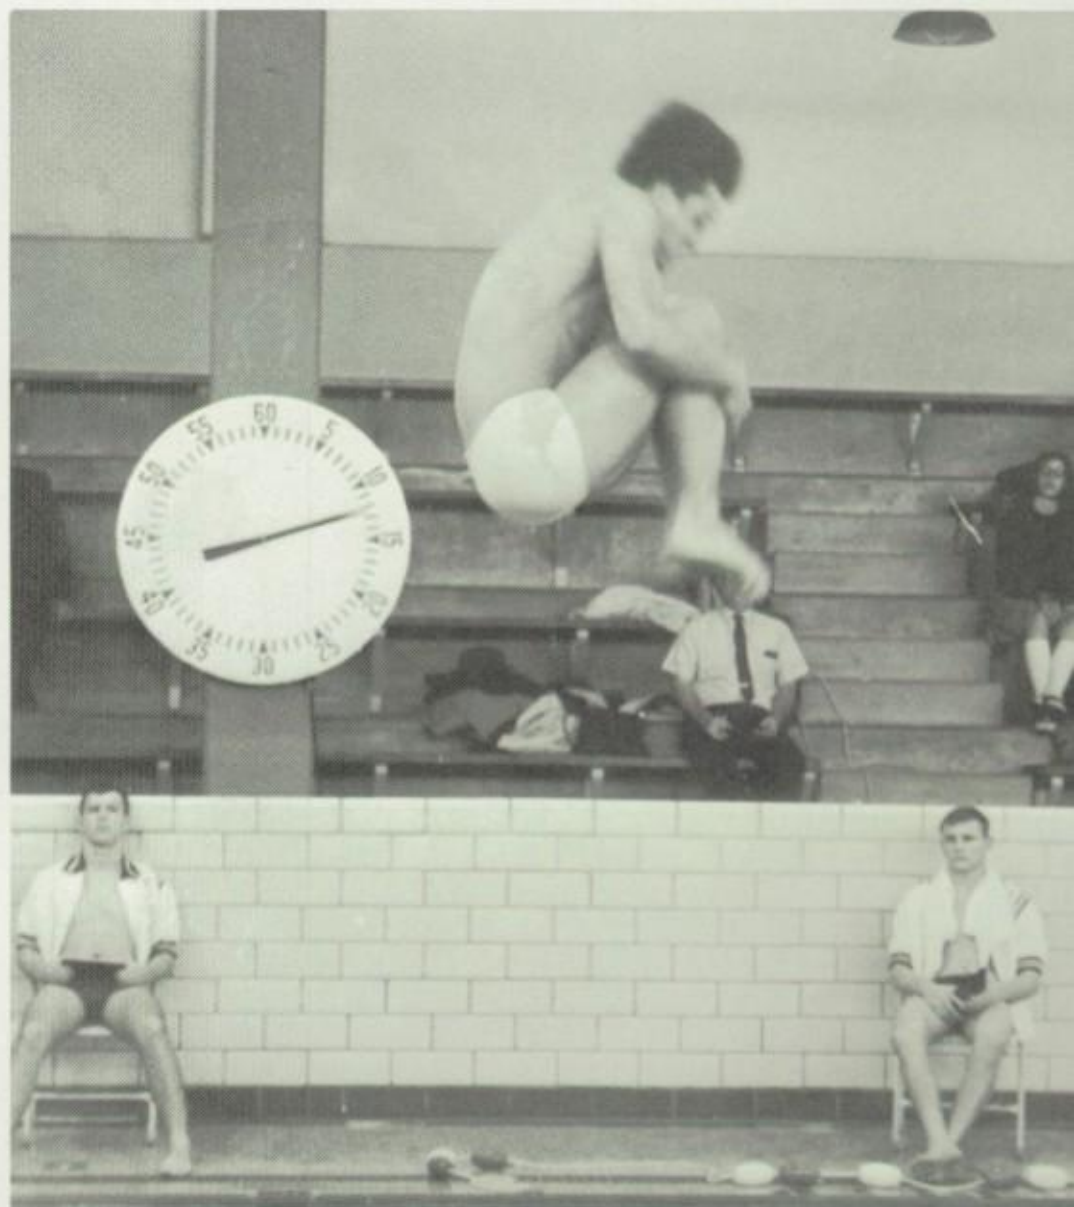

Variety was added to the tedious schedule of practices by frequent water polo matches.

Besides swimming against other schools, the Water Buffs also had an intra-squad and a varsity-alumni meet. The alumni gave the varsity a scare, but increpid old age led to the graduates' downfall, 49-46. Another unusual meet pitted the girls against the boys in an annual event.

The State meet capped the season with Southeast placing third.

Eighteen boys won their letters for the season.

Diligent work by gymnastic team members helped the Buffs to a fourth place finish in city league competition.

One of the highlights of the year was hosting the Kansas Western Regionals, in which Southeast placed fourth and qualified two gymnasts for the state meet. With Bob Fretzs' ninth on the side horse, and Rick Hall's ninth on the parallel bars, the Buffs managed a tenth place state finish.

A new gymnastics practice room was built in the basement space below the swimming pool to make it possible for gymnasts to work out every night after school instead of once a week, as they were limited to in the past.

VARSITY GYMNASTICS TEAM MEMBERS WERE: First row: Rick Hall, Bob Howard, Bob Fretzs, Joe Beck, Ralph Bickford, Steve Kurtz, David Land.

stretches over the long vault. The addition of this event to high school meets brought a need for a larger squad this season.

EXECUTING A BACK HANDSPRING, Joe Beck gains points in free exercise.

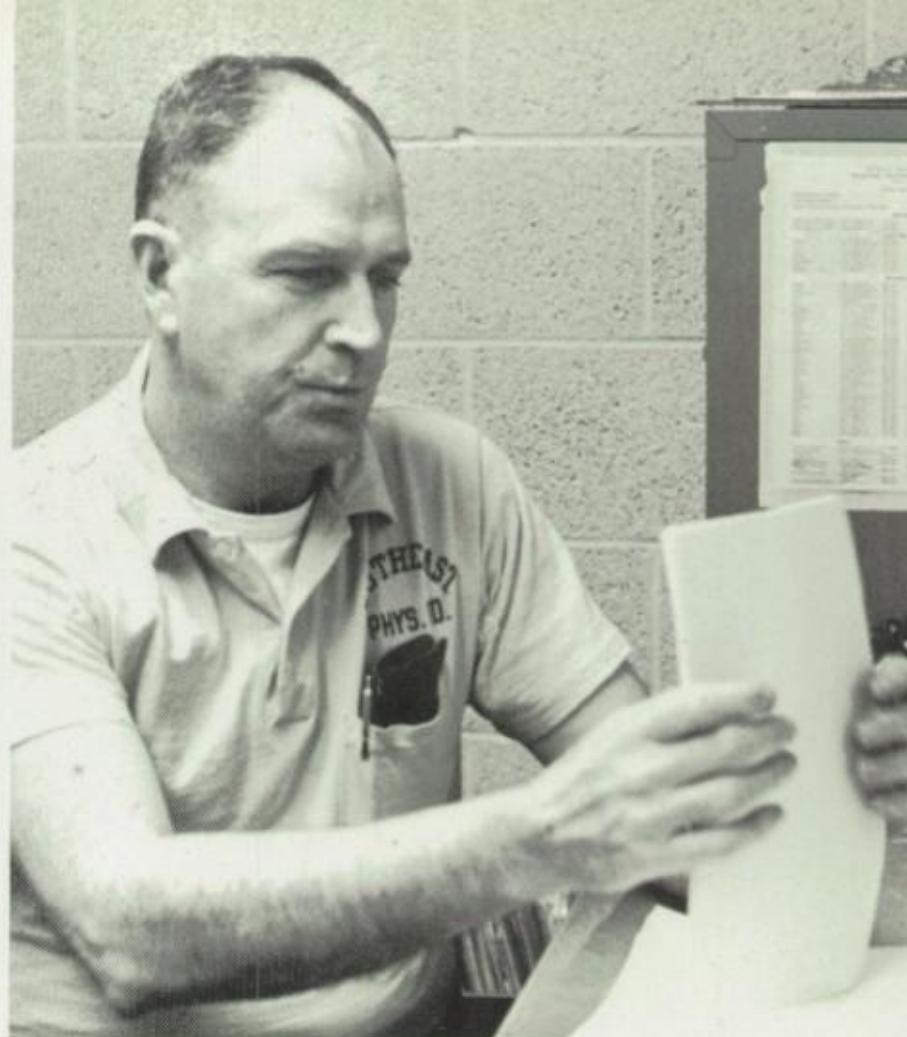

GIANT LEG CIRCLES were employed by Bob Fretzs as he practices on the side horse.

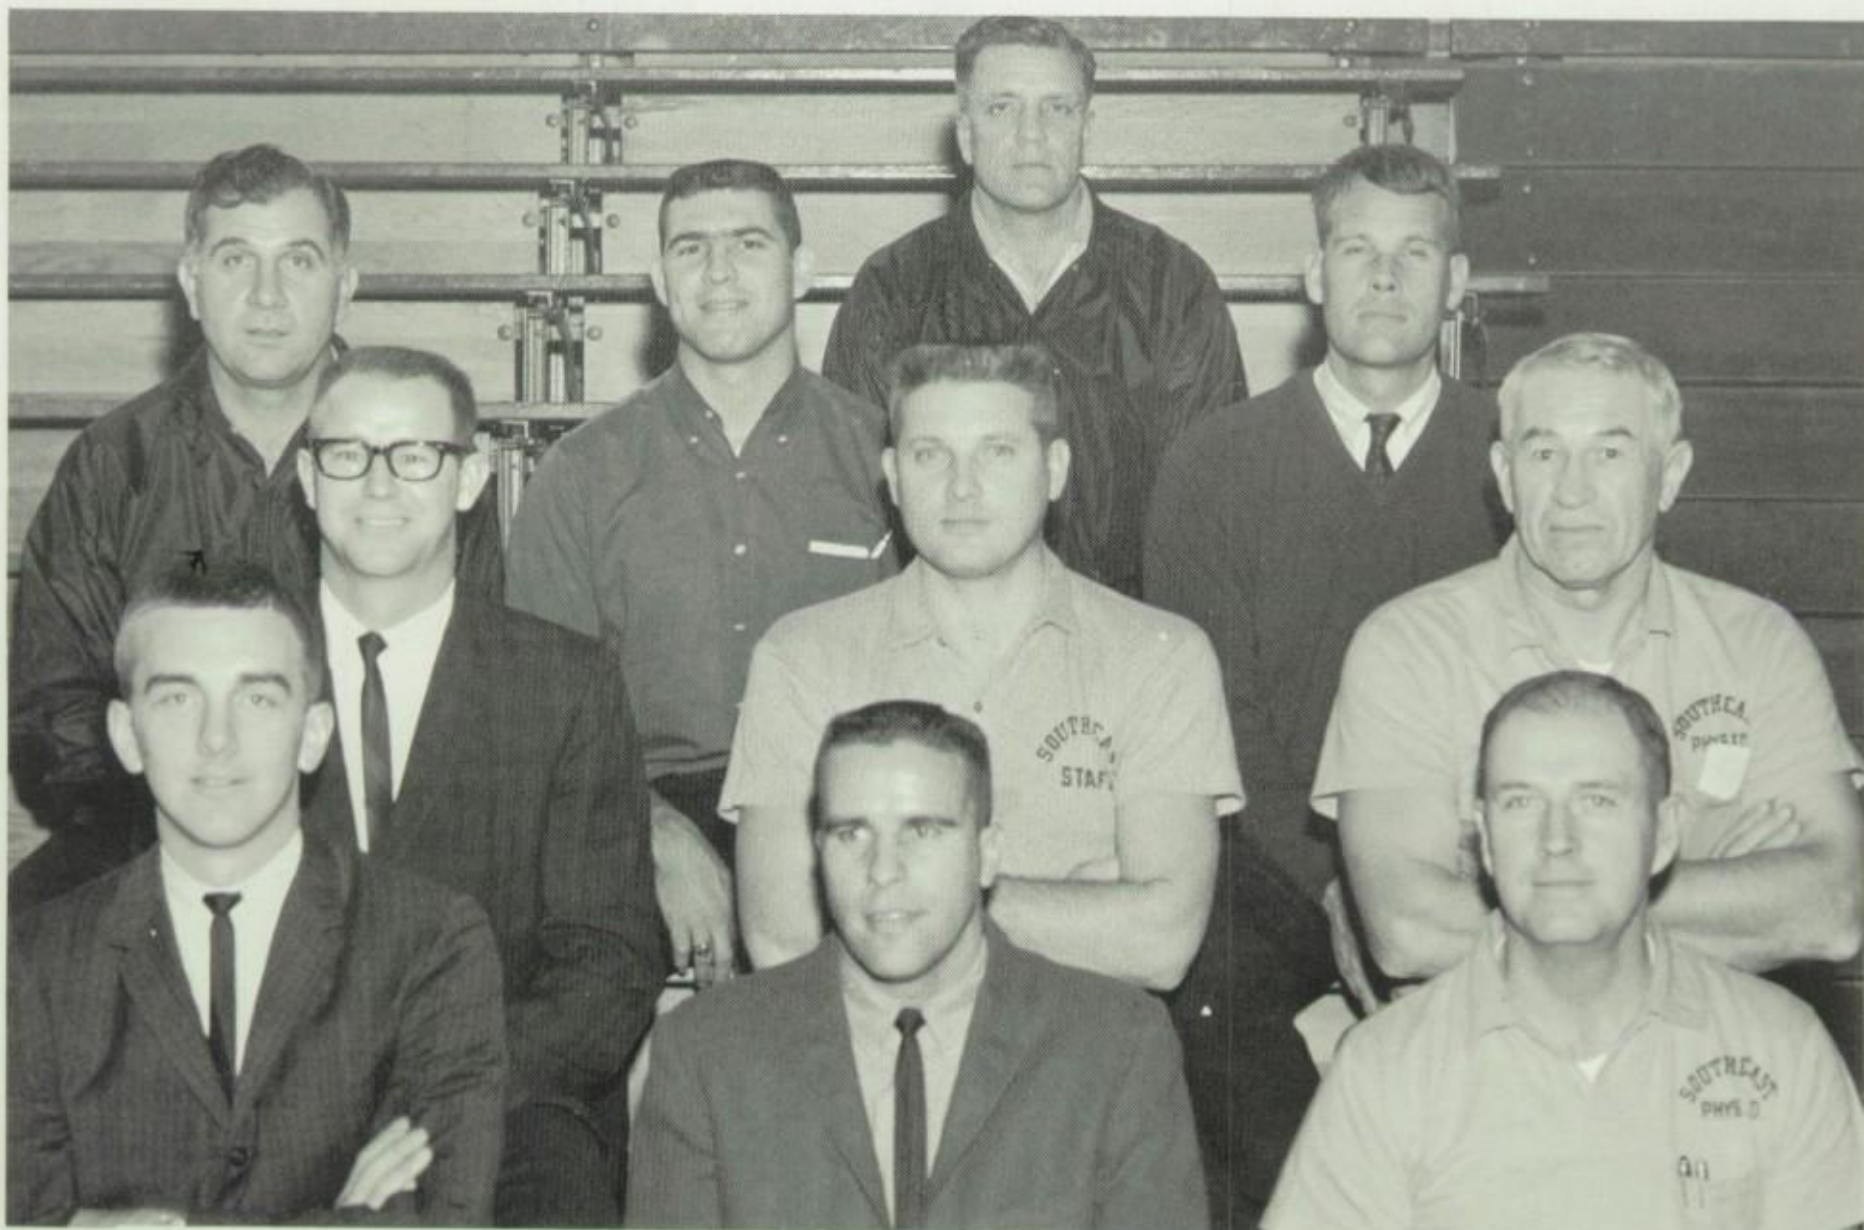

AN UNSUSPECTING senior girl was given the traditional shot by Coach Andree.

DOING PAPER WORK for the gymnastic regional was Coach Vandaveer.

SOUTHEAST COACHES WERE: Vernon Smith, sophomore basketball; James Deckinger, baseball, assistant football; Marvin Vandaveer, head football, gymnastics. Second row: Don Schmidt, tennis, assistant basketball; James McNerney, head basketball, golf; A. R. "Monk" Edwards, sophomore baseball, sophomore football, head wrestling; Don Lamb, athletic director; Charles Hatter, cross country, swimming.

UNABLE TO DECIDE who should hit the ball, a group of girls attempt to return it in an intramural volleyball game.

Sports Program Builds Bodies, Develops Character

JUMPING FOR THE BALL, boys competed for honors in an intramural basketball tournament.

Coaches lived in a changing world of ecstatic victory and bitter defeat, tension-filled "cliff-hangers" and pride-filled "runaways."

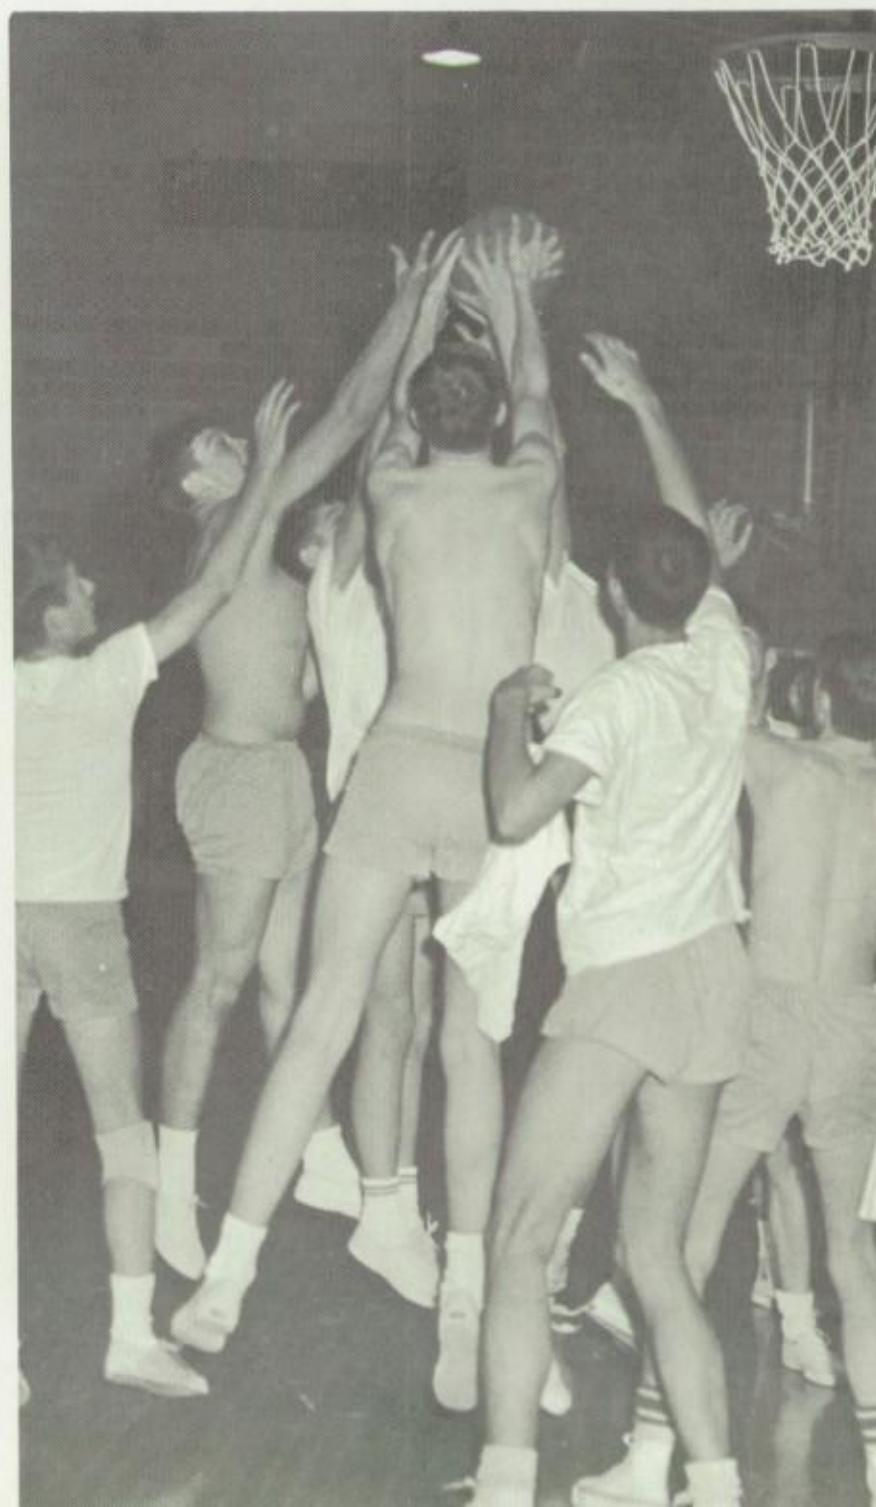

Early morning practices, after-school practices, and evening practices—all were an accepted part of the responsibilities that went along with coaching an athletic team. "Pride" was the incentive that made the hours of training a team easier, because to a coach, a well played game was synonymous with "pride."

But the coaches' responsibilities extended far beyond just teaching boys to play well. They were also responsible for helping mold the characters of their athletes. "Pride," then, was that unique combination of a winning team and upstanding individuals.

Balls thundering down the alleys characterized one facet of Southeast's extensive intramural program. Students who took advantage of this program were the "winners," as it gave them an opportunity to develop skills, to make new friends, and, in general, to have fun.

Intramural archery, badminton, basketball, bowling, fencing, field hockey, gymnastics, softball, track and field, and volleyball were offered to girls. Participation in these sports earned the girls points toward a letter.

Boys released energy after school by taking part in the basketball, bowling, tennis, and volleyball programs provided for them.

Seniors Shoulder Leadership Of Southeast While

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS were: Blanche Alvarado, sergeant-at-arms; Greg Wright, vice president; Karen Rice, treasurer; Jim Fritzemeier, president; and Barbara Linde, secretary.

SENIOR CLASS STUDENT COUNCIL MEMBERS were: Jim McLaughlin, Helen as council members-at-large.

Preparing For College

With two years of experience already behind them, the senior class of 1966 came to Southeast ready to continue the tradition of leadership handed to them with the turning of their rings as juniors.

That tradition of leadership prompted the class to initiate several new projects. Among the projects planned were a gift wrap center around Christmas-time, sponsoring of a well-known band for a Big Band night, a recreation night for students, and a hootenanny. OSOM Week, sponsored annually by the seniors, was the week of November 8.

Although devoting much of their time to bettering Southeast, the seniors were also busy preparing for their future. Studying hard to maintain good grades for scholarships, college entrance, and job opportunities was a prime concern to them. Weekends were frequently spent scouting college campuses.

As 629 departing seniors nervously donned caps and gowns on May 31, their thoughts naturally turned to the future, but with awareness and appreciation of three happy years at Southeast.

A SENIOR NEWSPAPER was a class project to generate pep and enthusiasm throughout the school. The paper was published before games and passed out in the cafeteria.

Juniors Assume New Responsibilities; Strive For

JUNIOR CLASS STUDENT COUNCIL MEMBERS included: Marshall Rice,

CONCENTRATING ON HER PSAT TEST was Ellen Bartlett, junior. Over 100 juniors took part in this testing program.

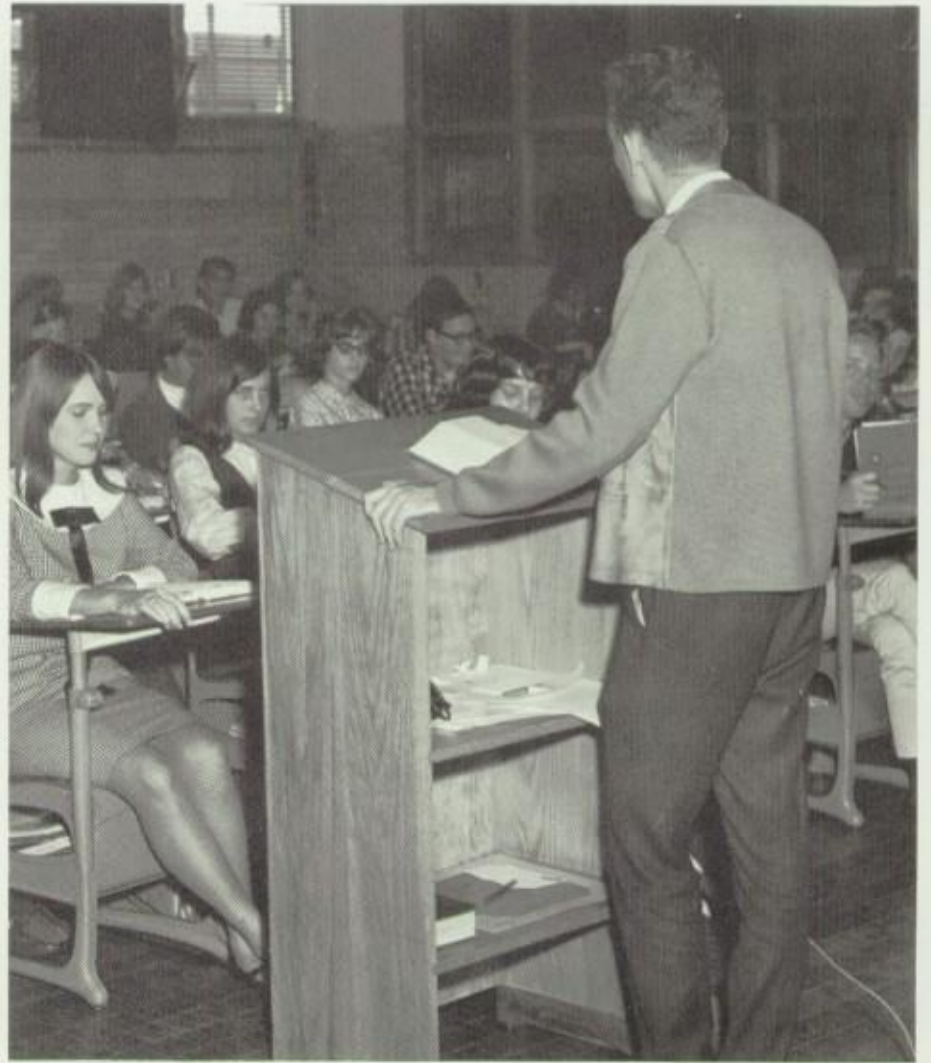

Academic Achievement

As the 793 juniors returned to Southeast last September, they found that a change had taken place which had thrust them into a different situation. No longer were they sophomores striving for security in a large school. Now they were middle classmen, faced with added responsibilities, new challenges, and most important, a future for which they must begin to plan.

With the help of their class co-ordinator, Mr. Garland Stricklin, and Mr. Lee Streiff, they staged "Happiness Is," the junior assembly. A highlight of the year came as they sponsored the junior-senior prom, "Imperial Palace."

The juniors were aware that as each year progressed there was an increasing need to plan for the future. Many of them took positive steps by trying to improve their grades, visiting with college representatives, and taking the National Merit and PSAT tests.

As the end of the school year neared, the juniors counted the days until their class rings could be turned, when two years of waiting finally resulted in "seniordom."

LISTENING to a lecture were these juniors in American History team teaching class. Last year there were three of these team teaching classes.

Sophomores Oriented Into High School Activities

CHECKING FIRST HOUR CLASSES at Orientation was the first step for Sophomores entering Southeast.

"Apprehension" best characterized and expressed the feelings of incoming sophomores.

Feeling at home in a school the size of Southeast is not always an easy task, but sophomores soon realized that they were a very important part of their school. Almost every new obstacle was conquered with assurance. They greeted class rivalry with a proud s-s-sof-m-m-mor, and met the pandemonium of C-hall with a shove-and-push technique.

The sophomores strived for individual accomplishments and recognition, but they also had pride in their class and did many things together. Together they elected officers and student council members to represent them, thrilled to the excitement of football on a crisp fall evening, and helped support school functions. Assisted by Mrs. Erica Barron, sophomore class co-ordinator, they sponsored a Halloween dance and displayed their talents in the sophomore assembly.

As the year drew to a close, the sophomores were anxious to shed the title of underclassmen and ready, by virtue of experience, to assume a role of greater responsibility as juniors.
